Ex-court administrator charged with embezzlement

Embezzlement charges have been filed against former 34th District Court Administrator Nancy Schuette, according to state Attorney General Frank Kelley.

Schuette was arraigned Friday in 29th District Court in Wayne, and an April 5 court date was set. She is free on $5,000 bond.

According to audits conducted by the state court administrator's office, approximately $270,000 was improperly withdrawn from the court betwen 1992 and 1993. In a complaint filed with the 34th Judicial District Court, Schuette is charged with three counts of embezzlement accounting for a portion of the missing funds.

Schuette allegedly hid the embezzlement by using the court system of voiding erroneous transactions. Under that system, whenever an incorrect amount was entered into the cash register, the cashier subtracted the incorrect amount by entering a second transaction.

The attorney general alleges that, when Schuette took money from the cash register, she entered a transaction subtracting that amount from the cash register balance. As a result, the amount of cash in the register was the same as the altered cash register balance at the end of the day.

Yearly audits by an outside firm failed to discover the embezzzlement.

The attorney general alleges that, when Schuette took money from the cash register, she entered a transaction subtracting that amount from the cash register balance.

In a recent audit, 44 recommendations for procedural changes were presented to the 34th District Court. Among them was a recommendation that proper security exist for the voiding of reciepts. It was also recommendeded that the reason for voiding a receipt be on the void receipt as well as the reissued receipt number.

If convicted of the embezzlement charge, the former court administrator could receive a 10-year s entence or fines of $15,000.

The investigation is continuing, according to the attorney general.

Schuette resigned from her post on Sept. 10, following a six-month paid leave while the audit was in progress.

In the final release signed by Schuette, she received "for the sole consideration of $8,733.32, the monetary equivalent of two months salary which is over and above payment for any accrued leave time or other entitlement, does covenant not to sue and does fully and forever release, acquit and discharge th eemployer (the 34th District Court)... of any and all past, present and future claims, demands, damages, actions, causes of actions of whatever kind or nature, which could have been asserted regarding the undersigned's employment, separation from employment, expresly including all damages."

Also in Shuette's final release, she acknowledge receipt of payroll check 10039 as full and final payment for all accrued leave time. She also acknowledged receipt of payroll checks 10040 and 10041 each for the gross amount of $4,366.66 less taxes for a total of $3,417.38 as full an final payment of the consideration as stated.

"It is further understood and agreed that the parties hereto declare and represent that no promise, inducement or agreement not herein expressedhave been made to them, and that this release contains the entire agreement between the parties hereto," the document stated. "The undersigned (Shuette) further agrees that, on her own iniative, she elects and promises to never again seek employment at the 34th District Court, State of Michigan and waives any and all right to reinstatement or employmenet."

Recreation chief joins team

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Brian Hitsky, newly named Romulus Parks and Recreation Director, revealed Friday he is fully ready to take on the challenges and opportunities facing the recreation needs of the city this year.

Hitsky, who succeeds DuWayne Martin, previously served as adminstrative assistant to Dearborn Heights Mayor Lyle Van Houten.

After Van Houten lost his re-election bid last November, Hitsky contacted Mayor Beverly McAnally and informed her that he was available for the recreation post opening.

Hitsky, 50, revealed it is a "real opportunity to come to Romulus, where the city has a history of good sports activities, senior citizen programs and other youth and adult outreach events."

Admitting that he is too new in the Romulus program, (he started in late January) to have all his priorities set in order, Hitsky said he wants to create greater awareness of local programs and add as much diversity to the athletic and non-athletic programs as possible.

"Down the road I would also like to add a multitude of living skill efforts," Hitsky said, such as resume writing skill classes, hobby preparation events, handi-people seminars (for home fix-up projects) and various computer classes."

"I'm excited about the healthy partnership we have with the Romulus School System. . .
- Brian Hitsky

Hitsky said he is ready to work hand in hand with the city's Recreation Commission to "provide more programs that heighten the interest of local residents, make our parks and playground systems more attractive and help local volunteerism grow even greater in Romulus today."

"I'm excited about the healthy partnership we have with the Romulus School System," Hitsky said, "where we are permitted to use the school gyms and auditoriums for our current outreach programs."

The new director said he is "blessed with a veteran staff, who have been involved with athletic and senior citizen programs for many years."

Hitsky said he and his staff are already planning the next fiscal year budget, so that quality programming can continue in Romulus.

Hitsky is a graduate of Wayne State University and former public relations official with the Detroit Piston basketball team.

He currently is attending Central Michigan University, where he will soon be awarded a master's degree in administration. He formerly played football at Wayne State and has been active since in golf and racquetball.

City lawyer studies survey

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus City Attorney Barry Seifman last week received an official copy of the questions asked in a recent survey of 300 city voters that was sponsored by Environmental Disposal Services (EDS) concerning the construction and current litigation of the planned hazardous/non hazardous liquid injection well.

The survey information was sent to Seifman by Jo Ann Rossi, vice president of Moore and Associates, the firm hired to develop a survey design and questionnaire.

"The survey was intended to provide information about voter attitudes toward the well project. The questions for the survey are phrased in an objective manner so as not to persuade respondents towards a particular view," Rossi wrote in a letter adjoining the survey questions.

"In conducting the survey, interviewers are instructed to read the questions verbatim and are not allowed to impose their opinions, to paraphrase or to comment," she continued.

Rossi also wrote, "The identity of the client is not disclosed at any time during the survey, nor are survey questions intentionally phrased to mislead respondents as to the client's identity."

Several residents complained at a City Council meeting that they felt the questions led them to believe that the survey was being conducted by the city.

Rossi continued, "300 interviews were collected via a random-digit- dial survey method, which allows every telephone household in Romulus an equal chance of being called. Participation in the survey is voluntary and respondents can terminate the interview at any time."

Rossi stressed, "Any information provided by respondents is strictly confidential."

Rossi then concluded, "It would be unethical for any firm in this industry to knowingly construct and execute biased research."

Complaints about the survey irked Mayor Pro-tem Mary Ann Banks and Seifman. EDS operations manager Vincent Schager promised that Seifman would be mailed the survey questions.

Seifman said he remains concerned because the introductory material provided him doesn't match up with the reported criticism by the survey respondents.

Defiant home owner favors jail over pulling signs

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A defiant Romulus property owner, who claims the city of Romulus is trying to "steal" his property for a nearby housing development, said he is willing to go back to jail "for the rest of my life" rather than capitulate to city demands he take down his controversial signs.

Among the messages on the large signs posted in front of two of his family's homes are, "Communism isn't dead, it has just moved to Romulus", "We are not criminals, all we do is live here," and, "Due to continued harassment, this property and everything on it is for sale."

The two homes owned by William "Bill" Connolly and his mother, Dorothy, are located on twin properties, a 4-acre site containing the home he owns and a 1 and 3/4-acre property where his mother's home is located.

The Connolly family members, who operate a tire shredding business on the larger site, claim harassment by the city of Romulus was greatly intensified when Rudgate Corp. began buying up property in the Cogswell and Ecorse road area a year or two ago to construct a manufactured home development.

Connolly said Rudgate offered him $125,000 in August 1990 and he made a counter offer of $765,000 and was disappointed when no compromise offer came from Rudgate. Tina Bassett, a spokesman for Rudgate, confirmed the offers, but said the disparity of the offers and the cost to remove tires from his property would be exorbitant.

Bassett said Rudgate at this time would rather be good neighbors with the Connollys, rather than owners of the property.

Bassett said, "Somehow about 150,000 tires appeared on Rudgate's property and it cost the housing firm $112,000 to have them removed. The charge is 75 cents a tire, so that also diminishes the value of Connolly's property to us."

But Bassett contended Rudgate has no animosity toward the Connollys and still would like to create a wholesome area there.

Romulus Ordinance Officer Steve Banko claims that Connolly has a long history of not responding to ordinance violation summons and was jailed in November 1993 for refusal to put up bail.

Connolly claims two "bounty hunters" came on his property shortly before Thanksgiving bearing a "blank piece of paper" and placed him under arrest for more than 20 ordinance violations claiming he had 100,000 used tires on his property and had erected several illegal fences.

Banko said Connolly's claim was an "absolute untruth," stating two city officers made the arrest.

Connolly and his family also complain that outside 34th District Court Judge Felix Rogalle's courtroom, Banko demanded that he take down the "offensive signs."

Connolly said he refused, claiming the hand painted signs are the only means he has to show the community his displeasure.

Missing woman's body found

The body of a woman who disappeared from her Van Buren Township home two weeks ago was found in a wooded area approximately one mile from her home by family members who were searching for her.

Searchers discovered the body of Karen Kramer, the mother of two teen- aged children, in a wooded area near Interstate-94 and Haggerty Road.

Her husband, Robert Kramer reported to Van Buren Township police that his wife, Karen, disappeared in the early morning of hours of Feb. 6. She left without her purse, which contained identification and credit cards. Her vechicle was left in the garage and her keys were found in the house.

According to family members, the woman had been depressed after learning that her father had been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease. She also was despondent about her parents moving from the area to Escanaba.

Police do not suspect any foul play. A full autopsy report is not expected for another week.

ROMULUS NEWS
DIGEST

School district dropout rate dips

The Romulus High School dropout rate has continued to dip slightly in recent years, despite the large number of transient students, Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell revealed recently.

The dropout rate was 8.6 percent in 1990, 7.9 percent in 1991 and 7.8 percent in 1992.

"While we still are not satisfied with the dropout rate, we are pleased with the slight improvement over the past three years," Bedell said. The figures compare favorably with some of our neighboring school districts, he concluded.

Romulus students to attend contest

Three Romulus students were medal winners and 12 others were finalists in the Feb. 12 Michigan Association Health Occupation Students of America, Region 3 Career Development Conference.

Evelyn Hopewell, program coordinator, expressed pride in the local students and revealed the medal winners were: Nyhemia Heard, who received a bronze medal as a physical therapy aide; Michael Deaton, bronze medal winner for medical spelling and Heather Dulmage, earned a gold medal for interview skills.

The finalists were Felicia Davis, Kali Gilmore, Kali Gilmore, April Josephson, Gloria Cofield, Allethea Greene, Betty Lavette Nichols, Loleatha Beaman, Ganice Rawls, Michelle Kirby, Darnell Slaton and Angela Deschamp.

The students will represent Romulus in the March competition.

Romulus resident joins U.S. Army

Mark J. Cady, son of Nancy and Oscar Cady of Romulus, has started his basic training with the U.S. Army at Fort Gordon, Ga.

Cady recently enlisted in the Army and reported for active duty on Feb. 8, 1994.

Romulus students win achievements

Erika S. Luster and Paul S. Pyenta, both of Romulus, were among the 100 top students at Wayne State University who were selected for membership in the Phi Beta Kappa chapter.

Students must be in the top 10 percent of their class and have academic records that reflect the broad liberal arts and science spirit. The gold Phi Betta Kappa key they are awarded represents ambition, friendship, morality and learning.

Luster is a biology-science major and Pyenta is a chemical-mathematics student.

Two local students on dean's list

Romulus residents Julie Marie Hankins and Rachel L. Sigler have been named to the dean's list for the fall of 1993 at Schoolcraft College in Livonia by Dean of Instruction Louis Reibling.

A student needs to carry at least 12 hours during the semester and earn a 3.5 grade point average to qualify.

Metro Airport Center purchased

The 72-acre Metro Airport Center that is 98-percent leased has been sold to the Chicago-based Heitman Advisory Corp.

The property, located at the corner of Wayne and Goddard Roads, was sold for an undisclosed price and includes seven of the nine buildings plus 24-acres of undeveloped land in the industrial park.

Musical message
Words touch the soul

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

There is a song in Tacena Redick's heart that reaches the soul.

She sings about the homeless and the hungry.

And, in her songs, she calls upon all of us to help those "who are among the outcast and the unfortunate of our society."

Tacena, who lives in Belleville, has teamed with James Randolph of Inkster to record her first two songs, Homeless and Ali- Luyah.

Her musical message rocks the fiber of our conscience, urging us ...To open our hearts..just give them some inspiration...the homeless need a new start..they need a home.

Tacena, a 1989 Belleville High School graduate, began to show her flair for singing as a preschooler and, like Aretha Franklin, went on to perfect her voice as a member of her church choir, capturing the Second Baptist Church congregation's heart.

With Randolph's assistance, Tacena wrote Homeless, then penned Ali-Luyah, a tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and a reminder that the past should not be forgotten.

Her tapes are earning radio time in Florida, and are apropos for Black History Month, which is being celebrated across the nation this month.

Intensely devoted to music, the 21-year-old vocalist's career is being handled by her agent, Marty Vasher of Romulus, who predicts "Tacena will make it in a market that is tough and competitive because she is good and is devoted to her work."

"She undeniably has a gift - her voice - and I am confident she's going to make it. I am a good judge of character and Tacena has it all. It will only be a matter of time," her manager said.

Randolph said he has heard some excellent voices through the years at his Inkster-based recording studios, and Tacena has the potential to be among the best.

"But, you know, it really doesn't matter what I think of the music. It's the performer who counts. They must believe in themselves. And if they do, and work at it, there isn't anything that they can't accomplish," Randolph said. "A star isn't born over night. But if you look out there, it will shine some day if the elements are there."

Civil action proposed

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER

When the District Control Unit of the 34th District Court met Tuesday, the possibility of a civil lawsuit to recover the $270,000 in missing court funds was discussed.

"This may be premature, but I think we need to go on notice now that we will take a civil action to regain those funds," said Belleville City Manager Jeff Przygocki. "We have a responsibility to the taxpayers to make them whole."

Former court administrator Nancy Schuette has been charged with embezzlement, and faces a March 5 preliminary hearing in 27th District Court.

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally noted that the former court employee was bonded through the city under its self-insured plan.

"If we collect on it, we'll hike our experience rating, and it's out of our pocket," the Romulus mayor said.

McInally told fellow DCU members that Romulus had first raised the issue of the missing funds, but "we were ignored. No one paid attention to the allegations until the judges got involved."

Judge Felix Rogalle, who now serves as chief judge, said he gathered preliminary evidence and presented it to the state Supreme Court and the State Police.

"A self investigation is a poor investigation. That is why I brought the matter to the attention of the state Supreme Court," Rogalle said.

The judge said he understand the frustration of the leaders of the five communities served by the court, but added that he could not comment on the ongoing investigation.

Rogalle said he believed most of the missing money was taken from Romulus traffic ticket receipts.

The judge said he is confident that the court is currently in "fine shape."

Signs

"The signs helped us get a story out on television Channel 50, while I was placed in a distant county jail in Isabella County. I don't know why, but while I was in jail I was allowed to call any phone number I wanted, but my own home. So I had to direct all my calls to my mother's house."

Connolly, his wife, Mary; two of his three children and two grandchildren reside in his home. His house is located on a former centennial farm off Cogswell Road.

Connolly also complained that the 34th District Court in Romulus continues to give him court dates that are for "non-operation times."

In January he complains the court assigned him a date of Feb. 18, a date the court was closed for business. His new court date for a pre- trial hearing is Jan. 28 and a court official stated "it appears a great deal can be settled at that time."

"In the past they kept on changing his court dates, so that my dad lost $1,000 in bail," Connolly's daughter, Margaret. charged. "Also when he was in Isabella County Jail, he couldn't call home for over a month. Finally his lawyer, John Cross, went to Isabella County on New Years Day and had the "phone block" eliminated," she claimed.

Dorothy Connolly said, "We know other families in the city have faced the same type of harassment in the past and either paid the fine or moved out of the city."

She continued, "We will seek to be in touch with them also."

CROP walkers praised

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus area CROP walkers were praised for helping earn more than $21,000 in the Romulus-Belleville walk for the hungry last autumn.

Michigan CROP leader David Bower traveled to the Community United Methodist Church for a special sacrificial Ash Wednesday dinner last week, and told a gathering of about 60 persons that the local CROP effort was "absolutely incredible."

Bower, who has been state CROP leader since 1970, said "your dedicated group of volunteers raised even more than the Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills CROP walk that I was involved with last year."

He reminded those in attendance "a great deal of the effort you were involved in will touch you all personally, since the first 25 percent of the collection is given to Romulus-Belleville self-help groups themselves."

The veteran Christian leader said it was symbolic that he should appear in Romulus on Ash Wednesday, when local residents could share a meal (soup and bread) similar to those consumed by African and Far East refugees.

Host pastor, Rev. J.D. Landis, said it is a special thrill to know that the Romulus portion of the two-city walk for the hungry jumped from about $500 a decade ago to close to $10,000 this past year. The remainder was collected by Belleville Christian volunteers.

Bower brought numerous Christian keepsakes from various foreign lands he has visited as a CROP official and volunteer.

"One of the other thrills," Bower said, "is the vision of seeing Christian churches across Africa now growing faster than any other area in the world."

David Bower

Bower also offered a video that showed how the money raised by CROP walks was being used in places such as Burma, Cambodia and Thailand.

"It is a pleasure to travel through various African countries and find that not only are the churches' attendance rolls exploding, but the members themselves are filled with a new warmth and compassion for their fellow countrymen and women," he said.

Church World Service (CSW), a group composed of members of more than 30 Christian denominations, provides critically needed farm skill training, seeds for various vegetable plants needed to supplement rice dinners, clothing, innoculations for work animals such as water buffalo and family blankets.

"Our work volunteers fill a tremendous void in countries such as Cambodia, where Communist insurgents killed more than one and a half million educated persons more than 20 years ago," Bower said.

"During the Vietnam War years and those immediatly after, educated Cambodians were exterminated at will. It was a hazard at that time to even wear eye glasses," Bower said, "because it was assumed that if you wore glasses you were educated and needed to be done away with."

Today CWS and CROP volunteers are training veterinarians and farmers in Thailand and Cambodia, so that needy families' work animals can be protected from serious diseases and diets can be expanded to help the undernourished.

Family blankets also are distributed in the U.S. and around the world. Overseas the blankets are passed out one to a family and thus most families all sleep under the same blanket, Bower said.

Bower said also that many American victims of floods and earthquakes have been heavily aided by CROP funds and volunteers.

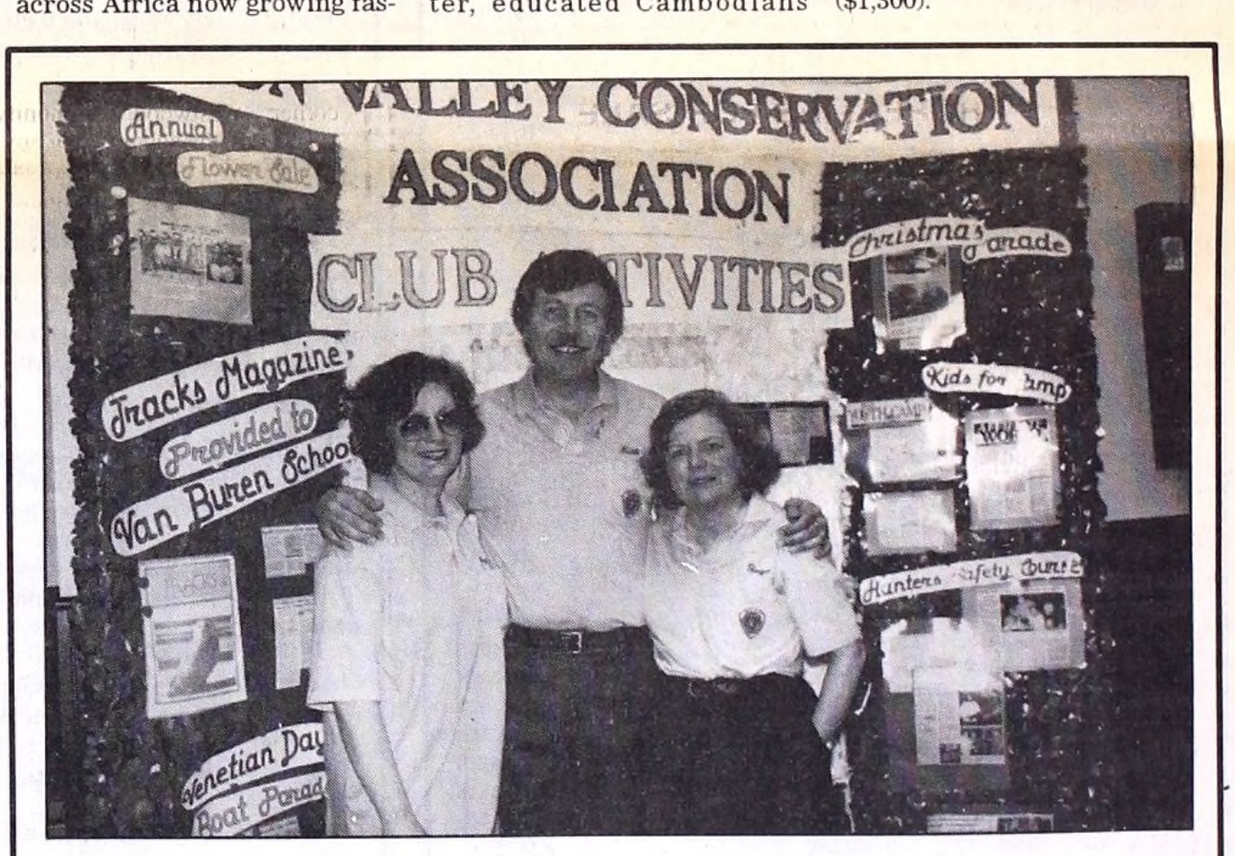
Over 1,150 blankets were distributed in past years to the Cass Corridor residents of Detroit.

Michigan CROP figures show that $1,762,222 was collected in 1992, making it the eighth straight year the total was over $1 million. Figure breakdowns are not yet available for 1993.

In 1992 more than 31,760 walkers took part across Michigan, with the average collection from each walker topping $47. The oldest walker was listed as a 95 year old woman. Bower revealed that a separate appeal raised $150,517 for blankets the same year.

CROP efforts were organized in Michigan in 1948 by Russell Hartzler, who served as state director for 22 years.

The top Romulus CROP fund raisers were Romulus High School teacher Lance Knudsen ($1,500) and Community United Methodist Church member Matt McGrane ($1,300).



Kids to benefit

Procceds from the annual fund-raising event are used to send 25 youngsters to camp, provide Tracks magazine to fifth-graders and to host fishing and hunting clinics for boys and girl. President invited to school

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

President Bill Clinton is again being invited to Romulus Senior High School next month, so that he can join students from 30 Wayne County school districts who will be attending an all-day study of the controversial North American Free Trade Association efforts.

The trade agreement had many opponents from Michigan, but was approved by Congress following a long lobbying effort by President Clinton last year.

The President was supported in his drive for passage of the trade bill by all of the living past Presidents of the U.S.

"We are hoping that President Clinton, who will be visiting in nearby Detroit for the Group of Seven labor ministers session, will have time to join us for our on-going NAFTA study on March 14," Principal Thomas Dolan said.

"We realize it is only a shot in the dark," Dolan said, "but we are using our best power bases...Congressmen William Ford (D-Ypsilanti) and John Dingell (D-Trenton) and even top executives at Northwest Airlines to try to get Clinton to make a brief stop here."

Romulus students have been studying the impact of the NAFTA program since September thanks to a $4,000 "Peace and Conflict" grant earned in 1993.

Some of the study group have already visited Washington and video- taped comments from congressmen and senators.

Other plans include the students visiting Canada and Mexico, the other U.S. trading partners in the treaty plan, Dolan said.

On June 2, the Romulus students will answer call-in questions from around the nation over the national C-Span station on the NAFTA issues.

Only two other schools have earned such grants, Burlington, N.C. and Portland, Ore.

Former resident reported missing by family

A Wayne couple is desperately searching for their 28-year-old son, Matthew J. Cipriani, who has been missing since Feb. 2.

Cipriani, the director of the Rolling Meadows Park District Ice Arena in Palatine, Ill., went to work as usual on Feb. 2, according to his older brother, Michael.

"He never returned to his home after work," Michael Cipriani said. "The last person who saw him was a secretary in the office who said she saw my brother around 10:30 a.m. He said he was going to the doctor.

"The last time I talked to him was Super Bowl Sunday which was three days before he was missing, and he said he was feeling fine."

Cipriani, winner of the James J. Poplin award in Wayne last year, is 6-feet, 2-inches tall, and weighs approximately 230 pounds. He was last seen wearing a brown leather jacket.

"This is very unlike Matthew because he never goes off like this," his brother said. "He is always helping out friends and family, and we at first thought that he might have left to help someone out, but he has been away too long now without any word."

Cipriani moved to Palatine four years ago. He was expected to participate in his roommate's wedding Feb. 26.

"He is also the president of the Northwest House Hockey League which consists of 80 team players between 6 and 17 years old," his brother said.

The local police in Palatine are investigating the matter. Police officials informed the family that Cipriani did take "a few thousand dollars" from his own bank account prior to his disappearance.

He apparently took his car, a white 1992 Thunderbird."

A "Find Matt" fund has been established to locate Cipriani.

Those interested in assisting the family can contribute at the Wayne Community Center.

Ford to expand switchyard

Wayne City Council members approved a site plan for the Michigan Truck Plant primary switchyard which will upgrade the electrical service for the plant on Michigan Avenue.

"We found the plan to be top rate," said Community Development Director Debbie Manns. "The scope of the project includes the construction of a primary switchyard north of the Stamping Plant and a trestle connecting the new switchyard with the existing conveyor bride."

The Wayne Planning Commission was in favor of the plan with one contingency-building and electrical permits be obtained before beginning the site work.

A site plan to expand the Fiddle Bar on Van Born Road was also approved by the council.

Owner Le Nguyen plans to use the additional room for more seating area and amusement games.

"The planning commission recommended approval of this plan with additional parking added," Manns said.

Other contingencies requested by the council and planning commission included:

- Install splashblock at the downspout located on the east side of the building.
- Remove all debris from the property.
- Remove the posts which are located along the east side of the driveway.
- Align and secure bumper blocks so that they are centered on parking spaces.
- Secure loose bumper block on the east side of the parking lot.
- Prohibit parking in the front of the building in the southwest corner of the property so that the driveway off of Woodward Street can be used.
- Stripe one parking space for handicapped parking and post a handicapped parking sign at the designated parking space.
- Send a letter to the Wayne Police Department authorizing them to enforce the handicap provisions of the parking code on the property.

The second reading of the ordinance was approved and adopted by the Township Board and the ordinance became effective on December 23, 1993. FCC Form 393 was received from each cable operators, and on January 4, 1994 two resolutions were adopted for tolling order allowing the township an additional 90 days to review FCC Form 393. The township has until April 5, 1994 to take any action with respect to review of FCC Form 393. The township is in receipt of one cable programming service complaint form that a resident filed with the FCC. FCC Form 393 was submitted to the Township's cable consultant, Varnum, Riddering, Schmidt and Howlett for their review. Van Buren is anticipating a cost sharing with other communities that are serviced by the cable operators.

Opinion

Enough is enough

We wonder how many Romulus residents really understand what is happening in their city.

Most of them, we suspect, know there is some conflict regarding the hazardous waste deepwell project and many have probably heard the emotional claims that the well might present a health hazard sometime in the future.

But we doubt that many fully understand the political drama which has been under way regarding this project--just as we doubt that many of the members of the group opposing the well could be swayed with logic or scientific findings which disagree with their beliefs.

What concerns us most, however, is the present legal expense the city has authorized to fight this project. We wonder how many city projects could have been funded with this $100,000--and the additional funds also recently approved by members of the city council to do battle with Environmental Disposal Systems (EDS), the owners of the well. To date, a total of $110,000 has been spent on attorneys and legal fees and there is another $140,000 of taxpayers' money authorized to fight a company which has offered to share revenue with the city based on the amount of business done at the facility.

That royalty fee is estimated to be about $500,000 annually--and was also projected to increase as the operation matured. We suspect that many citizens do not understand that this annual royalty fee could offer them services and benefits which may become crucial to the quality of life in the City of Romulus.

Presently, the annual budget in the city is about $10 million--and adding $500,000 to those city coffers could provide road work, city health services, increased police and fire protection, recreation and senior citizen programs unheard of in a city this size. With this funding, the city could provide a fine place for residents.

If this lawsuit continues and EDS is forced to spend corporate funds to battle the city--those royalties are in jeopardy. Corporate spokesmen have not been that blunt, but caged in their polite and gentle rhetoric, their meaning is clear. They attempted to be the very best neighbor possible. And, because of political pressure from a group of citizens, the project has been delayed to the tune of nearly $1 million, the reputation of the company has been damaged and the money earmarked to fund the construction and development will go toward legal fees. There will be nothing left to offer the city--and should EDS management choose to sue the city to regain the costs of these delays, we shudder to think of the damage which could be done.

The information we have gathered and which has been presented to us would indicate that the EDS position in this matter is very solid. The city claim of zoning violations is obliterated by the testimony of former director of community development Dennis Oakes who has stated, under oath, that the city was well aware of the proposed well and that the EDS procedures were well within the limits of the city ordinances.

The city case was dismissed by the first judge who heard the arguments and the baseless motion to suppress Oake's testimony. What do the administration and the members of the city council feel will be different next time?

What will be different is the balance in the city budget and the amount of benefit and services residents receive. They will forego nearly a quarter of a million dollars in services--and the promised half million dollars annually EDS was willing to add to the city coffers.

And now, members of the city council have approved a ballot request asking every property owner in the city to contribute toward this lawsuit for the next five years. If voters go for this one, they will be paying $250,000 for the next five years for "environmental issues."

We suggest that the political environment should be the first one addressed by voters--and that the voice of reason be loudly sounded before every citizen of Romulus has been denied increased and improved city services because of the emotional outcries of a vociferous group of individuals who have drowned out the silent majority.

We hope that a genuine concern for the benefit of those who live and work in the city of Romulus will win out. If the health, welfare and safety of the residents of the city is the real concern here, EDS should be welcomed with open arms.

Ballot proposal blasted

To the editor:

A "wake up call" is long overdue for the people of the State of Michigan. The March 15 ballot proposal is not about a tax cut or school finance reform. It's about power and who wields it. It's not about quality education. It's about who decides what your children learn. It's not about equal opportunity for children. It's about allowing the state to pit one segment of our society against the other through taxation without uniformity.

The foul odor coming out of Lansing is due to the festering of contempt for voters of the State of Michigan and the lack of respect for law and the flagrant violation of the Constitution these same legislators have sworn to uphold.

Most of the provisions in Proposal "A" are the very same ones we turned down in the last election. Two people, living in identical houses, could be paying different amounts of taxes due to non-uniform assessment based on how long they have lived in the home. They could be paying different millage rates based on whether it is their homestead. Or, if they had an extra lot attached to their property, if it is described in the assessor's office as being part of their homestead would be paying one rate; if it is not, they would be paying another.

Worse than that, we would be giving up, to the legislature, the power to raise property taxes which is, at present, reserved only to the people.

It is time we took notice that this election is being run like a millage campaign. Over and over the question is brought before the electorate. This time, instead of holding just our children hostage, we are being held hostage as well. We have been given an equally objectionable alternative plan (which we will not be given the opportunity to vote for or against). MEA influence and money is undeniable in these proposals.

This proposal is on the ballot only because the Court of Appeals now considers itself to have the authority to legislate rather than interpret the law. Election law has been ignored. On March 15, more than 200 villages across this state may have to use paper ballots to vote since they will be holding an election on March 14. Election law prohibits use of the same election equipment because of the possibility of a recount. In some of these villages they will not even be voting at the same location.

All the people of the State of Michigan deserve a cut in taxes. Neither of these proposals contain that guarantee. They are cumbersome, confusing for most and, in my opinion, a tax shift increase. To my knowledge, every taxpayer organization, across this state, has reached the same conclusion.

By now most of you have received the "Important Notice to Michigan Taxpayers" in the mail. While it may not technically violate campaign finance laws, it sure reads like a piece of election propaganda. At what cost to the taxpayer?

You probably have also received your Homestead Exemption Form. Why do they need your Social Security Numbers when they already know your PIN (Property Identification Number)? Section 7(a) and (b) of the "Federal Privacy Act of 1974" states that you "cannot be denied any right, benefit or privilege provided by law" if you fail to disclose your Social Security number and that the state must tell you whether disclosure is mandatory or voluntary. Equally important, they must tell you what uses will be made of it. At what cost to the taxpayer? By what right do they create a condition where they investigate you for fraud and make private information public?

The ballot language for proposal "A" does not begin to tell you all the evils unleashed by a yes vote. Local control of schools and our money is imperative. The powers that be in Lansing have proven themselves incapable of placing our interests ahead of the special interests.

My plea to you is to defeat proposal "A" on March 15. Vote No! A constitutional amendment is difficult to change. In addition, get angry! Tell your legislators ... "I'm mad as hell and I'm not going to take it anymore." If they refuse to abandon the alternate proposal or support Senate Bill 667 (Taxpayers United 20 percent Property Tax Cut), make sure they understand that we will remember in November.

Bus drivers thank parents

To the editor:

The bus drivers and mechanics at the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools would like to thank everyone for their patience and support in the last few weeks. Particularly, the infamous ice storm of Jan. 27, 1994, reminded us that Mother Nature is still in control.

An extremely stressful and long day for our bus drivers was made more bearable by many kind, selfless acts by men and women from our community. Farmers used tractors to pull buses out of ditches, parents offered their homes to warm drivers whose buses had slid off the road.

Many of our drivers had children at home and they were concerned with their safety. However, instead of going home after they had finished their work day, they drove their buses out on hazardous roads and into neighborhoods that they were not familiar with so that your children could be home as soon as possible. Because so many buses were disabled in the snow and ice, many drivers who were helping out were not familiar with the bus routes. Drivers had to rely on the students for directions. At no time would any bus driver knowingly leave a child in a dangerous situation, let alone at the wrong end of a road.

The transportation department at the Plymouth-Canton Schools has justifiably prided itself in its efficient operations. I am sure you can recognize from your own workplace, that as organizations strive to be more efficient (right sizing, down sizing, etc.), they can no longer be prepared for all situations that can arise, without a noticeable loss in service or response time. In times of crisis, like Jan. 27, a lean and efficient department like ours does not have surplus buses or drivers to draw from. Our drivers are proud public employees and live in our community. Thanks to a bond issue approved by you, we drive safe, efficient, and well-maintained buses. We are here to serve the children and families of our community.

Again, on behalf of all of us in the transportation department, I would like to thank you for your continued support.

'Jobs tax' criticized

To the editor:

Democrats who argue in favor of a 6-percent state income tax are being penny wise and dollar foolish. A higher state income tax would be devastating to poor and low income people in Michigan. Why? Because a higher income tax is a tax on jobs! Poor people need jobs more than rich people. The income tax is a "jobs tax." If you tax something you get less of it. Fewer jobs in Michigan is the last thing that poor and low income people need. The jobs tax is the cruelest tax of all!

By creating a normalized tax structure in Michigan - you encourage existing business and industry to stay and you attract new industries. There is already talk of re-opening the G.M. closed Willow Run plant!

The sales tax is a tax on conspicuous consumption. Rich people who buy lots of new cars and luxury items will pay most of this tax. Poor people are mostly exempt from this tax because food, rent and medicine are not taxed. To say otherwise is pure policy wonk nonsense!

Vote yes on March 15! Don't tax poor and low-income people out of their jobs. Instead raise the conspicuous consumption tax on your doctor's new Mercedes and your dentist's new Porsche. Don't worry - they'll still be able to afford it.

Say no to the public-sector bureaucrats and their paid policy wonks. You know what they really want? More of your tax dollars so they can keep raising their already bloated salaries. Don't be fooled by their phony concern for the poor. Go with your gut feeling on this proposal. Vote yes on March 15, because you know that taxing jobs is wrong.

Salvation Army seeks help

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Used and new quality clothing and blankets of all types are currently being sought by the Salvation Army's Adult Rehabilitation Centers (ARC) in Romulus and Detroit, according to Capt. Roger Senn of the Romulus ARC.

"The rehabilitation centers and thrift stores are running short of both items because of the extreme cold weather this winter," Senn said, as it appears "people have not been able to part with extra clothing to date. But the need has not declined.

"We really need people to get into their closets and send us any clothing and blankets that aren't being used," he said.

Both Senn and Capt. Graham Allan, commander of the Detroit ARC, revealed that during the past few months, the ARC's supply has been reduced to an emergency status.

"Extremely cold and hungry residents of the community have come to Army shelters and local corps community centers as a respite from the frigid temperatures," Senn said.

"The Salvation Army's policy of refusing no legitimate request for help brought service to hundreds in the Detroit area" has become a challenge this year," Allan said.

"The community has been extra generous in flood and earthquake disaster relief in recent months, and this is possibly another reason for the lower level of local giving," said Senn.

Clothing and blankets can be dropped off at the Romulus Thrift Store at 33750 Goddard Road or at the ARC facility at 1627 Fort St., Detroit. Calls for pickup can be arranged by calling 1-941-5100 in Romulus or 313-965-7760 in Detroit.

Newspaper drive aids victims

In an effort to aid victims of the recent earthquakes and mudslides in California, Associated Newspapers has launched a telephone subscription drive to help fund relief efforts.

Area subscribers can receive any one of the six Associated Newspapers publications by mail for $26 per year and all profits will be donated to the Salvation Army relief efforts in California.

Information about the drive or subscriptions can be obtained at 729- 4000.

Inkster wears crown, one-away from perfection

Vikings sew up cage title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster High School cagers will take a well-deserved and earned rest this week after beating Highland Park Friday night and capturing the Suburban Athletic Conference (SAC) championship.

It was the first time since the 1988 campaign when the Vikings won back-to-back SAC titles that Inkster has owned the coveted first-place trophy. Coach Monte Dennard and the Vikings did it with an impressive come-from-behind, 62-48, victory over the Parkers.

Highland Park was the 16th consecutive Inkster victory of the 1993-94 campaign. They are 11-0 in the SAC and, with only last-place Ecorse remaining on the league schedule, even a loss to the Red Raiders would not change the top of the standings.

"Obviously, one of our goals this season was to win the conference title," said Dennard, "and we have accomplished that. It wasn't an easy task because we have some very tough teams in our league.

"And it's going to get even tougher because we're looking at some of those teams in the playoffs."

Inkster is assigned to play in the Class B district at Robichaud High School, a team that has given the Vikings the fits in the SAC. But Robichaud is not the only powerhouse in that district. Inkster may also have to contend with Dearborn Divine Child and Willow Run, two outstanding teams.

The other two schools assigned to Robichaud are Dearborn Heights Crestwood and Annapolis. They have not won a district championship in the past two decades.

Inkster has also had problems at the districts. The Vikings usually have been detoured on the road to the state competition by D.C.'s Falcons, who have managed to snatch close decisions from them. This year the Falcons also have an excellent club.

"We're not going to speculate on the playoffs at this point," Dennard stressed. "We still have a couple of teams in front of us."

Inkster will play Ecorse on March 4 for its SAC finale. It also is scheduled to meet Ypsilanti Lincoln.

Highland Park gave the reigning champs a scare in the first eight minutes of their duel. William Norman sank all eight of his points in the first period to lead the hosts to a 16-14 advantage, but a balanced Viking scoring attack led by Al White, Maurice Ballard, Greg Prewitt and Ibraheim Myles lifted Inkster to a 30-26 lead at the intermission.

Inkster players went on to outscore their hosts 16-8 and 16-14 in the final two frames to seal the victory.

White, considered one of the finest junior cagers in the state this year, finished with a game high 18 points. The 6-6 junior also nailed 13 rebounds and blocked three shots. Interestingly, it was White's uncle, Anthony White, who starred for the Vikings during their last two conference championship runs.

White was an All-area and All-State candidate for the then coach George Thompson.

Ballard's contribution against Highland Park was 14 points and James Outlaw, who is recovering from an ankle injury, finished with eight points.

Robichaud turns back Oak Park

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although Inkster is out of Robichaud's sight, the Vikings are not out of Bulldog coach Ron Tarrant's mind.

Tarrant and his Bulldogs, who dropped two close games to their natural rivals, are looking ahead to the Class B district playoffs in anticipation that they may meet Inkster in a tournament game.

"It never fails," says Tarrant. "We always meet them (Inkster) in the first round. If that happens, it will be our third encounter with them this season."

Robichaud tuned up for the playoffs with an impressive 66-63 victory over Oak Park. In a thriller that went right down to the final minute, Robichaud managed to come out ahead after trailing 34-31 at intermission.

Balanced Robichaud scoring offset a superb overall effort by Knights' sharpshooter Rodney Hampton, who played havoc on the Bulldog defense.

Hampton scored almost half of his team's points, finishing with a game-high 30.

But Antwon Harris, Tyris Williams and Matt Alexander provided the bulk of the Bulldog scoring power. Harris pumped in a team-high 21 points. Williams counted 15 and Alexander added 14 for the Bulldogs who are 6-3 in the Suburban Athletic Conference, one notch below undefeated Inkster which has sewed up the 1994 conference title.

Romulus comes alive

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Now that's more like it.

Looking more like the team that produced such great basketball stars as Johnny Long, Terry Mills and Grant Long, Romulus came alive last week and snapped out of its doldrums with a 75-52 victory over Lincoln Park last Tuesday.

Then, on Friday, coach Guy DelGiudice and the Eagles humbled one of the better Class A teams in Oakland County, Ferndale, 82-71.

"You can definitely say that we played our best game of the year against Ferndale," said the first-year Romulus coach whose club now has a 6-11 won-lost record. "It was a great week for us and hopefully the momentum will carry into the playoffs."

Romulus is host to a Class A district playoffs, which will be staged the second week in March. The Eagles will entertain area powers Belleville, Wayne Memorial, Westland John Glenn, Livonia Franklin and Garden City.

In Ferndale, Romulus defeated a "quality team," DelGiudice stressed and the Eagle defense managed to shut down 6-6, 240-pound junior center Jarret Stephens who, although he finished with 15 points, most of those were after the game was decided.

Keith Parks, a 5-11 forward who turned in a superlative floor game, staked the Eagles to a 19-14 lead with all seven of his points, which included two treys, coming in the first period.

The Eagles broke it open against Ferndale with a 25-

Inkster boasts district champs

For the first time in history, Inkster High has a Class B district wrestling champ.

The honor goes to Anthony Melchor, who won the gold on Saturday in competition at Gibraltar Carlson.

Melchor defeated Carlson wrestler Dan Rossow in the final seconds of their match in the 103-pound class. The victory qualified Melchor for regional competition.

Trailing 2-0 with 17 seconds remaining against Rossow, the Inkster grappler rallied with a two-point reversal, then put his opponent on his back for the 4-2 victory.

"We're proud of Anthony," said Inkster coach Sam Ellis. "Would you believe he is the first district champ in Inkster High's history?"

To reach the finals Melchor pinned John Jassow of Riverview, in 5:30, and he also pinned Airport wrestler Dave Vajan in the second round after a first-round bye.

Melchor will take a 38-2 record to the regionals.

In the meantime, Inkster was eliminated in the team competitions by Riverview. The Vikings lost a 46-26 decision to the district champ despite victories by Melchor (112), Dushawn Williams (152), Thuron Edwards (171) and Kevin Jackson (heavyweight).

The regional (team) championships will be staged tonight, while the individual titles will be decided on Saturday.

The state championships will be conducted the weekend of March 11 in Battle Creek.

Glenn, Salem split title

They sure didn't play like they were in a sharing mood Friday night, but when all the shooting was over and the smoke cleared, Westland John Glenn and Plymouth-Salem High School basketball players discovered that they would have to share the 1994 Western Lakes Conference Lake Division title.

The deadlock at the top of the divisional standings was created when Glenn won a hard-fought three-point, 47-44, victory over the previously undefeated Rocks. The fiercely contested duel went down to the last seconds of the game before the Rockets managed to pull it out on a Tony Goins' layup and pair of free throws.

Goins' decisive baskets and free throws came shortly after Salem captain James Head slammed a rebound into the net to give the visitors a 44-43 lead with less than a minute left.

"We had two gladiators out there fighting it out," noted Salem coach Bob Brodie, "and Glenn came out the victor. It was an excellent game."

It was also a game each possession was played as "crucial," pointed out Glenn coach Mike Schuette.

"It was one of those rare games that each and every possession counted," Schuette stressed. "And you can bet the fans were sitting at the edge of their seats and standing at the end of the game."

> We had two gladiators out there fighting it out and Glenn came out the victor. It was an excellent game.
> - Bob Brodie

Glenn managed to take a narrow 17-14 edge in the first period as center Guy Rucker tossed in six of his game-high 17 points in that period. Salem came back on a pair of Sanj Seth three-points to tie at 24-all at the halfway mark.

As the defense continued to remain in the spotlight, neither team had more than a four-point cushion down the stretch. In the third period, with Tariq Horne providing Glenn five of its 13 points, the hosts went up 37-33.

But the shaky four-point lead didn't stand up as Head, kept in check most of the evening by Tony Goins, made his move. He came up with a big rebound and rammed the ball into the basket to give the Rocks a short-lived lead. Goins retaliated with a layup to returned the advan-

Albert Jones (Glenn 35) draws the attention of Salem guard Sanj Seth (11) in the duel of the two top Western Lakes Division teams. Belleville zeros in on Mega 'Red' Division title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville High School players entered the week with their destiny in their hands and one victory away from the inaugural Mega Conference Red Division basketball title.

But, as Tiger coach Michael Garland has discovered during the years, destiny can be fickle, especially when he must face two traditionally tough opponents - Wayne Memorial (last night) and Fordson on Friday.

After a relatively easy 77-48 victory over Monroe Friday night, Belleville is one-victory away from wrapping up the conference title. However, a loss to Wayne would place Garland's Tigers in jeopardy. They would have to beat a rejuvenated Fordson on Friday, and that will come be easy.

Fordson had Wayne on the ropes a couple of week ago before losing a 73-63 decision to the Zebras and coach Chuck Henry. Henry realizes that his chances are slim, and may need a major miracle to wind up on top of the league standings.

"We could extend the suspense, but Belleville definitely is in the driver's seat," Henry noted.

Wayne (7-2) kept its slim hopes alive with a 72-55 pastings of Woodhaven. With Gerald Adams pumping in 10 of his game high 19 points in the first period, Wayne soared to an 18-8 lead and stayed out in front the rest of the way despite Woodhaven's Vince Carafelli and Jason Havlik's outstanding performances.

> At one point in this game we trailed 41-16. Obviously, I was not happy. In fact, very disappointed at the way we played early in the game, but the way we came back showed that these kids are not quitters. No matter how much they are down, they won't give up.
> - Chuck Henry

Carafelli, the Woodhaven's senior center, pumped in a pair of baskets to put his team back in the race. Woodhaven trailed 31-25 at the half, but Adams, Courtney Howard and Rod Hardison led a balanced Wayne attack in the second half that enabled the Zebras to pull away for good.

Up 44-35 for three periods, Wayne outscored their divisional rivals 28-20 to salt the victory away.

Howard had 15 points and Hardison chipped in 13, while Lorenzo Guess came off the bench and contributed 12 points and six rebounds. Carafelli scored 16 and Havlik got 15 for the losers.

In one of the strangest games this year, Wayne players almost found themselves dumped into the Rouge River by a hot-shooting Fordson quintet that exploded to a 27-14 first period lead as Nazik Abdallah scored 11 of his 20 points in the opening period.

After the smoke cleared, Wayne came back and cut the Tractor lead to 34-29, then came back in the third period and put their rivals away as Hardison drilled eight of his team's 26 third-quarter points that opened the way to a Wayne 55-43 Wayne lead.

"At one point in this game we trailed 41-16," said Henry. "Obviously, I was not happy. In fact, very disappointed at the way we played early in the game, but the way we came back showed that these kids are not quitters. No matter how much they are down, they won't give up."

After the rematch with Belleville last night, Wayne will return home on Friday to host Monroe. Then, on Tuesday, they will wrap up their inaugural Mega Conference season at Garden City.

Winter blues

Counselor suggests sunlight to cure seasonal blahs

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

For many people, the post-holiday season is a depressing period - cold weather, gray skies and long nights seem to plunge their spirits into the "winter blues."

But, for 6 to 20 percent of the population, the depression is far more serious than a mid-winter down cycle.

"Although there has always been an awareness that some people have the 'winter blues,' we are now aware that some individuals suffer from a more serious affliction. In fact, there is a diagnostic category for seasonal affective disorder (SAD)," said Roger Dallwig of His Place/Her Place Counseling Center. "Deprivation of sunlight during the winter has a significant impact on SAD, and light therapy is used in its treatment."

Dallwig noted that individuals with SAD are encouraged to sit in front of a fluorescent light source for 30 to 60 minutes daily, and even to turn lights on with a timer before rising in the morning.

"Light is the major factor in treating SAD, but exercise also is helpful," Dallwig said. "Diet is also important, and individuals are advised to avoid weight gains by shunning carbohydrates early in the day, and eating foods rich in proteins for breakfast and lunch."

Dallwig also suggested that those who suffer from SAD avoid big projects in January and February, if possible, because those months are when SAD is most likely to occur.

For most individuals, the 'winter blues' can be treated with a number of relatively easy steps, he said.

tage to the Rockets and after Salem missed a shot on the return trip down court, Glenn player Al Jones got the ball and cut through to the Rocks' basket and was fouled in his layup attempt.

Jones missed both shots with less than 15 seconds left, but Goins grabbed the rebound and was also fouled in his put-up attempt.

With 10 seconds remaining, Goins stepped to the free throw line and canned the two charities, giving Glenn the victory and a share of the divisional title.

Head finished with 11 points, but he was held to two in the first three quarters by Goins, who also finished with 12 rebounds.

"Tony came out and played the kind of defense we needed to win this game," said Schuette.

Rucker, a junior, counted eight rebounds and six blocked shots to go with his game-high 17 points, while Horne also was in double figured. He counted 11 points.

Glenn will carry a 13-3 overall and 10-1 conference record into the conference championships this weekend. Because of their record, the Rockets will be the No. 1 seed, while Salem is No.2.

"However, because Plymouth-Canton and Livonia Franklin have a make-up game, we won't have the complete pairings for the conference playoffs until after Tuesday," said Dennis Colligan, Northville athletic director, tournament director.

Colligan did announce the Friday night pairings for two of the local teams: John Glenn will take on eighth-seeded Northville at Northville, while Salem will host North Farmington. Both games are scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Northville can be tough. The Mustangs surprised Plymouth-Canton 70-56 last week behind Marc Chaisson's 18 points and George Lemmon's 13. Matt Paupore and Tadarius Rachal each sank 14 points for Canton.

point second period, jumping out in front 44-28 at intermission. That cushion gave DelGiudice an opportunity to substitute freely most of the second half.

Torey Turner wound up with a game-high 20 points as the 6-4 Romulus junior also finished with a career high 16 rebounds. Lajaun Wilson added 15 and Mike Bell sank 11 points for the Eagles. Rodney Smith and Antoine Stoudemire each had 10 points for the winners.

Romulus' balanced scoring assault also destroyed Lincoln Park. The Eagles led 20-14 and 34-22 after the first two periods before going on to outscore their rivals 17-14 and 24-16 in the final two frames.

Skip Luster tossed in 19 points while Bell, Rodney Smith and Stoudemire each had 11 for the winners. Turner also was in double figures with 10.

After playing Willow Run last night, the Eagles will rest up on Friday to prepare for the two Ann Arbor teams. They face Pioneer on Tuesday and wrap up the regular season a week from Thursday against Huron.

Michigan native stars in Crazy

The Tony-award winning musical Crazy For You has arrived at the Fisher Theatre starring former Michigan native Karen Ziemba, James Brennan and Ann B. Davis (Alice from the Brady Bunch).

Crazy, a Gershwin musical, is an all singing, all dancing ode to the great, glamorous, glitzy musical comedies of the Broadway theater.

In addition to the Gershwin favorites-Embraceable You, I Got Rhythm, They Can't Take That Away From Me and Someone To Watch Over Me-four newly-discovered Gershwin songs have been added.

The new Crazy For You finds rich, pampered, 1930s New York playboy Bobby Child (James Breenan) on his way to the lazy western town of Deadrock, Nev. to foreclose on a long-vacant theater.

His life takes an unexpected turn when he meets Polly Baker (Karen Ziemba), the only woman in a town of 157 men. Immediately love is in the air along with fast-breaking plot twists, high-stepping dances and plenty of chorus "dames and guys."

Ziemba said it feels great to be back in the state where she grew up. Born in St. Joseph, Mich., Ziemba has fond memories of her father taking her to the Fisher Theater every year for her birthday.

Although watching the professional actors perform on stage was very inspiring for Ziemba as a child, she said it was actually listening to the nostalgic music of singing celebrities such as Julie Andrews that gave her the inspiration to become an actress/Broadway star.

> "I think what inspired me to want to act and sing was hearing the music in my home, playing the records and imitating Julie Andrews and other wonderful professional singers/performers at that time."
> Karen Ziemba

"I think what inspired me to want to act and sing was hearing the music in my home, playing the records and imitating Julie Andrews and other wonderful professional singers/performers at that time," Ziemba said. "The music and acting from Disney was also very inspirational and uplifting for me when I was younger. It was magical."

According to Ziemba, one of her first acting experiences involved a production she and her neighborhood friend created.

"I remember in my old neighborhood, there was this girl across the street who would come over, and we would create our own play," Ziemba said. "I would put her in the tutu because I wanted the more passionate character role. I still enjoy those challenging passionate roles more today."

Ziemba began taking dance lessons when she was 6 years old. She said her dream was initially to become a ballet dancer. Through high school and college, however, she built her acting foundation, incorporating singing and dancing into the various school productions.

"After performing before a live audience in high school and then college, I felt that was what I wanted to do," Ziemba said. "Getting that applause and being able to see the audience respond to what you're doing on stage is so rewarding."

After graduating from the University of Akron, Ohio, Ziemba moved to New York. Within one year, she landed her first acting role in My Fair Lady.

"I have to say that I was one of the lucky ones," Ziemba said. "I was in New York without a union card trying to get a job. With My Fair Lady I was able to get enough working hours in so that I could obtain a union card."

Ziemba, an unknown at the time, blossomed on stage as an actress, and her career soared as she landed lead roles in more than nine major theater productions including The World Goes Round, 42nd Street and A Chorus Line.

In 1991, she won the Drama Desk award for her performance in the off- Broadway production of And The World Goes Round. Ziemba made her Broadway debut in A Chorus Line before starring as Peggy Sawyer in 42nd Street.

At the New York City Opera, her credits include the critically acclaimed portrayals of Cleo in The Most Happy Fella and Lizzie Curry in 110 In The Shade.

What has been one of her most enjoyable roles throughout the years?

"I have to say Crazy For You has been a high point," Ziemba said. "There are so many things about this production I enjoy, the outstanding Gershwin music, the tough female character role and the singing."

Ziemba was featured in the PBS Great Performances telecast of Soundheim: A Celebration at Carnegie Hall which was recorded live for RCA. She can also be heard on the New World Records compact disc of Cole Porter's Fifty Million Frenchmen and RCA's original cast recording of And The World Goes Round.

In the near future, Ziemba said she would like to obtain any television or movie opportunities was well as continue to perform on stage.

"What I would really like to do one day is originate a role on Broadway," Ziemba said.

Crazy For You is now showing through March 6. For performance times call (313)872-1000. For ticket information call (810)645-6666.

Man to face trial in beating

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A Westland resident accused of repeatedly beating his ex-girlfriend whom he had abducted was bound over to Detroit Recorder's Court for trial on charges of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm.

Kevin Lloyd Cavil, 37, waived his right to a preliminary examination before Westland 18th District Judge C.Charles Bokos. Cavil, who was being held on a $50,000 cash bond and restricted from any contact with the complainant, could face up to 10 years in prison if convicted of the charge.

The alleged incident reportedly began around 10:30 p.m. Feb. 8 at the Western Hills apartment complex on the 300 block of Hickory Street where both the victim and accused perpetrator live in separate buildings, Westland police Sgt. Donald Haigh said.

The 17-year-old victim was in the complex parking lot when she was allegedly approached by the perpetrator who instructed her to get into his car. In fear of being assaulted, Haigh said, the woman entered the vehicle and the assailant drove the victim around for approximately three hours, striking her with his hands. At one point, the man took off the victim's shoes to prevent her from leaving the car, Haigh said.

The man drove back to his apartment, where he lives with another woman, and kept the victim overnight, physically assaulting her throughout the evening.

"He would ask her questions about her new boyfriend and if she didn't respond in the correct fashion, he would beat her," Haigh said.

"He admits he beat her eight to 12 times during the night, but said she was not held against her will," Haigh said. "He also admitted to kicking her once."

The woman, who suffered several bruises, a swollen eye and a possible concussion, called police after she was permitted to leave the apartment around 4:30 p.m., Haigh said.

Guilty plea entered in abuse case

A Westland man accused of sexually assaulting a 34-year-old female relative in June 1993 pleaded guilty to second-degree criminal sexual conduct (CSC) before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge George Crockett.

James Vincent Sisler, 37, was scheduled for a Feb. 17 jury trial on the charge of one count of third-degree CSC, but plea bargained to the lesser charge. Sisler is scheduled to be sentenced in Recorder's Court on April 25. He faces a maximum of 15 years in prison.

A matter of opinion

Controversial attorney draws crowd to local meeting

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

Members of the Canton Economic Club knew the speaker last week would draw a crowd--and their expectations were proven correct when attorney Geoffrey Fieger appeared to speak about his well-known client, Dr. Jack Kevorkian.

Coming straight from the airport to the Mayflower Meeting House, where he flew in from a news interview with Peter Jennings in New York, Fieger kept the 225-member audience spellbound as he spoke about the "civil rights issue of the 90s."

"We're not talking about suicide or the right to have someone assist. It's not about the right to die, I'll give that away to anyone who wants it. It's about the right not to suffer," said Fieger. "The right to make a decision on how much a person should suffer."

According to Fieger, everyone had a right to make that decision for themselves prior to February 1993.

"Since Dr. Kevorkian popped up, special interest groups can't leave other people alone. Right to Life, the most powerful lobby group, was able to pass a bill in one day."

The counselor explained it was the passage of the bill that forced Kevorkian, described as, "the most caring and compassionate physician" Fieger has ever met, to stand up in opposition of the bill, even go to jail.

"Dr. Kevorkian is not an outlaw, (because he is showing support) for a right that was taken away. This is civil disobedience, and this is how we effect change. You will have to grab the medical profession by the scruff of the neck and drag them into the 20th century."

Fieger blames legislators for the violation of fundamental civil rights.

"Legislators see with kaleidoscope eyes," said the attorney. "They try to focus on the traditional family values and say it's okay to starve or suffocate a person (by unplugging machines), but it's not okay to do what Dr. Kevorkian is doing."

"If a cat or dog was suffering in front of us, it's humane to put them out of their misery, but not for our own kind. Is that what we're saying?" questioned Fieger.

Within 30 days, legislation is expected which will make it impossible to sue doctors for more than $250,000, said the medical malpractice attorney.

"Those Bozos in the legislature have already put a price tag on your life - $250,000. What they are saying is we'll put a doctor in jail if he assists in a suicide, but we'll exonerate him if he does it the old-fashioned way," Fieger said.

> If this society is so concerned with suicide I can tell you how to eliminate it tomorrow. Address the issues of handguns, liquor and cigarettes which are killing our kids.
> - Geoffrey Fieger

In the 20 suicides with which Dr. Kevorkian has assisted, none of the 200 family members have complained that their relatives were taken advantage of, said Fieger.

"The person to be taken advantage of is the unconscious person," he said. "Dr. Kevorkian counsels people for years, and for the 20 people he has helped (commit suicide), he has turned hundreds away. He spends more time with his patients than anyone I've ever met. Do you think your doctor will be by your side, holding your hand, when you die? Dr. Kevorkian is."

"If this society is so concerned with suicide," Fieger continued, "I can tell you how to eliminate it tomorrow. Address the issues of handguns, liquor and cigarettes which are killing our kids."

Fieger has appeared throughout metro-Detroit speaking on the issue and gathering support to put "the right not to suffer" before voters March 15.

"I urge all of you who are politically connected to get this on the ballot. If you oppose what we're doing, sign the petition and help us put it on the ballot so people can defeat it."

"At some point when the suffering is so great, we welcome the portal of death," said the attorney, "but there are some who want to make this a sectarian society and believe their interpretation of Christian belief is pre-imminent."

As it looks, many courts are finding in favor of Dr. Kevorkian and his actions by ruling that the "right not to suffer" is inherent in the constitution. Thus far, three of the four cases brought against the doctor have been dropped, but two are being appealed at a higher court.

"The court of appeals has two choices," said Fieger. "They can say "Yes, these laws (restricting Dr. Kevorkian's actions) are unconstitutional," or they can say "Yes, it's permissible for these lunatics to take away your right to decide.""

"Don't you believe in God?" screamed out an audience member.

Fieger responded that whether he believes or not is irrelevant. "Whether God is the owner of my body, or I am the owner of my body, I know the government is not the owner of my body. I would think if it's so good to get into heaven, people would want to get there as soon as possible."

Julie Norricks, of Canton Township, took a day of her mid-winter break from Plymouth-Salem High School to hear what Fieger had to say. "I agree that people should have the right to choose, but I think if they want to commit suicide, they should do it themselves."

Plymouth Salem senior Lee Bonner, a Canton resident, reacted differently to the discussion. "He answered a lot of questions I had and made a very important point. Despite your religious beliefs, the government doesn't have the right to make the decision."

Geoffrey Fieger

No matter which side of the issue audience members favored, everyone was stirred by the discussion indicated William Joyner, executive director of the club. "Today's program exemplifies what the Canton Economic Club stands for," he said. "The intellectual exchange that occurred here speaks well of western Wayne County to deal with issues that affect our society."

Geoffrey Fieger speaks to the audience at the Canton Economic Club meeting.

Governor pushes sales tax proposal

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

> If Proposal A doesn't pass, we'll be taking a step backward. Its approval is better for Michigan growth and better for the people of Michigan.
> - Doug Rothwell

In the dilemma of choosing an increased sales tax versus a boosted income tax, Gov. John Engler and his aides believe the former is the only "clear choice."

"If Proposal A doesn't pass, we'll be taking a step backward. Its approval is better for Michigan growth and better for the people of Michigan," said Doug Rothwell, chief executive officer of the Michigan Jobs Commission.

Rothwell said some people, mistakenly believe that if Proposal is defeated, an alternate plan - other than the increased income tax - will be substituted.

"I can assure you that there is a Plan A (sales tax hike), a Plan B (income tax increase), but there is no Plan C. Unlike in other elections, there is no status quo if the proposal is not passed," Rothwell said. "The governor has launched an informational campaign about Proposal A, and we are finding that the more people know about Proposal A, the more they favor it. It is a common sense plan."

Rothwell noted that the alternative to Proposal A, a 6 percent state income tax, would be burdensome to senior citizens and others on a fixed income.

"In Michigan, we have a flat rate income tax, so everyone will pay the same percentage, whether it's on an income of $10,000 or $100,000. Obviously, an additional 2 percent income tax will be more of a burden on poor people than on more affluent people," Rothwell said.

"On the other hand, the state sales tax exempts housing, pharmaceuticals, food and energy costs - all of the basics - leaving mostly the discretionary spending to be taxed," Rothwell said. "The way the Michigan sales tax is set up, it is not regressive."

In addition, part of the sales tax - perhaps, as much as 10 to 20 percent - will be paid by out-of-state visitors and tourists.

"Basically, the state sales tax increase will allow you to keep more of what you earn," he said. "It is also a jobs issue. If our income taxes are higher than other states, we won't be on a level playing field when it comes to businesses expanding or locating in the state."

Rothwell said it is critical to have a good business climate for job growth and job creation. Businesses planning to locate or expand in Michigan will be comparing our tax rates to those of other states.

"If Proposal A passes, our income and sales taxes will be at about the same level as other states and our property taxes will be far below. If, however, the alternate plan is implemented, our state would have the highest flat rate income tax in the nation."

Gov. John Engler believes approval of Proposal A "is quite frankly, a stark choice between setting Michigan back or moving Michigan forward."

On March 15, voters will have a choice to vote yes for a ballot plan or reject that in favor of a legislative backup plan.

In the past, the state has relied on property taxes to provide most of the funding for school. Inequities in that method surfaced, and the school property taxes were cut last year. To replace the school property taxes, there is a ballot proposal and a statutory backup plan.

"The ballot plan is the right plan for Michigan's hard working men and women. It is right for families, right for homeowners and right for small businesses and job providers," the governor said.

The major benefits of a yes vote for Proposal A, which would boost the sales tax from 4 percent to 6 percent, are:

- A cut of more than 80 percent of school property taxes for most homeowners.
- A cut of 33 percent in school property taxes for most businesses
- A cut in income taxes for every taxpayer from 4.6 percent to 4.4 percent.
- Constitutionally guaranteed caps on assessments and property tax millages.
- Constitutionally guaranteed full funding for public schools.

Now that's Italian

Restaurant takes pride in homemade quality

Tasty homemade Italian dishes ranging from luncheon pizza and submarine sandwiches to full course pasta, chicken and veal dinners are available to Associated Newspapers VIP ticket holders at a discounted price at Antonio's restaurant in Dearborn Heights.

Owner Anthony Rugiero proudly states "our family motto is 'if it is not made in the house, we don't serve it.'"

For VIP card holders, $3 is discounted off lunches for two Monday through Friday, $5 is discounted from dinners for two Sunday through Thursday and a complimentary dessert is served free with a meal for a VIP card holder.

Rugiero said, "We have a pasta factory on premises, and we make all our own pasta, sauces, soups and dressings. Various Italian style breads, including our popular pizza bread, are constantly available.

"We tell our customers, relax and enjoy the atmosphere, because we make everything here from scratch," Rugiero said.

His six-member family includes his mom, Rita, who is the main cook; his dad, Antonio, who the restaurant was named after; and his three brothers, Mark, Robert and Patrick.

Other customer favorites include homemade gnocchi (a potato dumping) and imported espresso and cappucino coffees, Rugiero said.

Small birthday gatherings are popular at Antonio's and the birthday honoree is treated to a special personal birthday cake.

In addition, banquets for parties of up to 65 persons can be accommodated in the banquet room, he said.

The only items not made on premises are the beer, wines and liquors.

Lunches are served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily and dinners are offered from 3 to 10 p.m.

The restaurant located at 26356 Ford Road, Dearborn Heights, closes at 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. All other nights the eatery closes an hour earlier.

An employee at Antonio's prepares the fresh pasta made on the premises each day for the various homemade Italian dishes featured at the family-owned and operated business which serves traditional Italian fare. Derek Street revealed he and his partner, Jeff Ward, are currently located at 5852 Hubbard St. in Garden City. They were previously located for five years in Westland.

"We provide quality products and service," Street said, "and also service many hair salons in the area.

"Individuals interested in new kitchen cabinets just need to call (513 7713) and alert us to the color of the cabinet door they favor and we will bring samples to their home," he said.

Subscription drive to benefit quake victims

In addition to the savings subscribers can enjoy with the VIP section each week, Associated Newspapers has begun a subscription drive to benefit victims of the recent earthquakes in California.

"Many people do not realize the hardships that many still face in the wake of this disaster," said Publisher Susan Willett. "We forget that not everyone in California has the financial resources to replace all their possessions. Many are still without homes and food is scarce. We think of California and we think of affluence--but literally thousands have been left destitute by this disaster," she added.

Associated Newspapers will be donating a portion of each $24 annual subscription price to The Salvation Army to aid with relief efforts in the communities hardest hit by this disaster.

"We were very successful when we did this for the flood victims in Mississippi and were able to provide a substantial contribution to The Salvation Army for those people," Willett said. "We hope to do as well this time--because it's just as worthy a cause and these people are just as deserving of our help."

Willett added that once again the newspaper would dedicate a page to list the names of all those who participate in the effort so that the community would be aware of the effort.

Telemarketers will be phoning area homes evenings and Saturday afternoons to solicit subscriptions for the effort. Subscribers will receive the Wednesday Associated Newspapers publication of their choice which includes the VIP section and more than $25 in manufacturers' national coupons each week.

Teen-ager charged in death of football star

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A gun-toting 16-year-old Taylor boy was arrested and charged with the shooting death of a former Romulus High School football quarterback, according to police.

The suspect was arrested late Thursday afternoon, less than 48 hours after he allegedly fatally wounded the victim in the parking lot of the Romulus alternative high school on Superior Road in Romulus, city police said.

Police said the victim, Christopher Warren Jones, was shot in the back, while standing outside his van in the Mount Pleasant School parking lot. Mr. Jones then staggered into the school with a baseball bat in his hands and then collapsed, a school official said. Police and an ambulance were immediately summoned.

Mr. Jones was taken to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, where he was pronounced dead.

Romulus Detective Lt. Kenneth Kraus reported the victim had arrived at the school shortly before 9:15 p.m. Tuesday to pick up his girl friend, who attended adult classes there.

Kraus said a verbal argument had broken out between girl friends of the victim and accused assailant shortly before the shooting. The two males apparently then entered the argument and before long the shots were fired, police said.

One shot struck Mr. Jones in the back and two others entered the victim's van.

The shooting occurred approximately 15 minutes after the adult night school classes ended. Few people reportedly were in the parking lot at the time of the shooting, police said.

The defendant and other area youth were questioned Wednesday and Thursday, prior to the charge being pressed. The handgun, believed to be the murder weapon, was confiscated. Kraus said detectives will turn the evidence over to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office, whose representatives will decide whether the youth will be tried as an adult or a juvenile.

The victim, son of Bruce and Pat Jones of Romulus, had been a part- time employee of Environmental Disposal Services, the owners and operators of the planned environmental liquid injection well

Vince Schager, EDS operations manager, revealed Mr. Jones "began working for EDS last October and helped with our community relations. He helped us prepare the video presentation that aired on local television last fall."

Schager called Mr. Jones a "capable, dependable" employee and said "he would do anything that he was asked to do on the job." Schager also praised "his zeal and leadership."

Superintendent Dr. William Bedell, when informed of the murder, said "that's a shame. He use to be able to throw the football through a brick wall when he played for the Eagles."

High School Counselor John Dumas said "Chris was always a pleasant type of student. He was the kind of youth you would be happy to call your own son."

Crash injures woman

A Wednesday evening collision has left one 24-year-old Westland resident seriously injured, according to Westland police officer Steve McIntosh.

The crash occurred around 5:20 p.m. when the victim, driving eastbound on Warren Road, lost control of her 1980 Mercury and crossed over the double lines colliding into an oncoming truck, McIntosh said.

The truck, which was traveling westbound on Newburgh Road, hit the Mercury on the driver's side sending the auto spinning off into a guard rail on the south side of Warren, McIntosh said.

The victim was transported to St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia and then air-lifted to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor where she remains on life support in critical condition, McIntosh said.

The officer added that it is possible the woman lost control of her vehicle due to the slushy, wet roadway. The driver of the truck was not injured.

Final conference set for Westland man

A March 4 final court conference has been scheduled for a Westland man charged with assault with intent to murder and felony firearm before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Prentis Edwards.

Christopher A. Boyd, 18, was allegedly involved in a shooting incident at the old Nankin apartments on Michigan Avenue at 4:20 a.m. Dec. 6.

Several gunshots were fired through the window of apartment 17, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"It appears the window was shot out intentionally," Drews said. "No one was injured."

Boyd was allegedly assisted by Jason Scott Krasson, 18, of Garden City, and Michael Raymond Elkins, 17, of Westland who are both charged with assault with intent to murder and felony firearm.

A Feb. 23 arraignment on information was scheduled for Elkins in Recorder's Court. Krasson is expected to be sentenced Feb. 28.

All three defendants were arraigned before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold and received a $50,000 cash bond.

State Rep. Kirk Profit (D-Ypsilanti) will argue in favor of the proposal and State Rep. Greg Pitoniak (D-Taylor) will argue against the proposal.

Both speakers were closely involved in the legislative debate that resulted in the ballot proposal to be voted on March 15, and the statutory proposal that will go into effect if the ballot proposal is defeated.

Mideastern food captivates Midwest diners

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER

Glittering beaded light fixtures, rich brass and copper decorations and fabulous foods await the guests who walk through the canopied tent-like entrance to Talal's in Dearborn.

Just a short drive from the heart of Wayne, diners can step into another part of the world without ever leaving the county.

The genie's touch of Chelsey Odom has transformed the former Crabby Joe's Restaurant into a page from Arabian Nights.

Odom, of Chesley Odom Design in Belleville, combined some of the owner's family pictures, items from his native Lebanon and a collection of antique and new items to create a touch of the Mideast in the Midwest.

"The first restaurant interior that I designed was Crabby Joe's in 1974. Now, 20 years later, on the same site, I've designed the new look for Talal's," Odom said. "Of course, the owner's touch is also here. He knew the look that he wanted to achieve, and made his preferences known. Many of the pictures on the walls are of his family or are items from his hometown in Lebanon.

Consequently, Talal's is a delight to the eye as well as to the stomach.

"When we started, Talal indicated that he didn't want the restaurant interior to be a major project, but once we got into it, the ideas continued to come and the project continued to grow," Odom said, noting that it took six months to complete.

"Talal's had its official opening on Jan. 12, which was Talal's 38th birthday and also the fifth anniversary of La Shish," Odom said.

The restaurant, owned by Talal Chahine, is the second project that Odom has done for the engineer turned restauranteur. Odom also designed the interior for LaShish, which adjoins the new 275-seat Mideastern-style restaurant on Michigan Avenue.

Those who remember the former restaurant are pleasantly surprised to see how the interior has changed. Still there, however, is the bar

Armed robbers running rampant

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A series of mostly unrelated armed robberies have plagued Westland this past week, according to Westland police Sgt. Donald Haigh.

A total of four armed robberies have occurred at Westland stores in a seven-day period, with one believed to be related to a series of robberies committed by the same perpetrator.

One incident occurred at approximately 9 p.m. Feb. 23 at the 7-Eleven convenience store, located at 160 S. Venoy Road near Cherryhill.

Two perpetrators entered the store and the alleged gunman approached the counter while the other man walked down the store aisle, Westland police Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

The perpetrator told the 19-year-old clerk he had a gun and the woman asked the man to show it to her. The robber became angry, Stobbe said, and said he would shoot her and reached into his pockets and pushed a hard object forward. The woman believed there was an object in his pockets and gave the assailant some $75 cash from the store register.

The perpetrators exited the store and got into a four-door gold vehicle, which the clerk said was driven by a third person, Stobbe said.

The gunman is described as a white male with a medium build, sporting a goatee, with light colored hair and a small pony tail, wearing a baseball cap with an emblem, a plaid sweatshirt and a gold watch with a black face.

The second perpetrator is described as a heavy set black male, wearing a black hooded sweatshirt over his head.

Both suspects are believed to be in their early 20s. There is no description of the driver of the vehicle.

Dancer admits to lying about rape, abduction

A 26-year-old topless dancer apparently likes to lie to police officers. But she has learned that there is a penalty for such antics.

On Jan. 28, Tammy Mitchell, the dancer, told Wayne police that she was abducted from the Farmer Jack supermarket parking lot on Michigan Avenue in Wayne, taken to an abandoned house in Inkster and raped.

Wayne police officers investigated and discovered that the abduction and rape didn't occur.

Mitchell was arrested and charged with filing a false police report, a misdemeanor offense.

On Feb. 18, Mitchell appeared in 29th District Court before Judge Carolyn Archbold and admitted that she had lied and that the sexual assault and abduction were a figment of her imagination.

For filing a false police report, Mitchell could get 90-days and (or) a $500 fine.

In the meantime, Inkster police detectives are also conducting an investigation into Mitchell's allegation that she was abducted from her place of employment, the Henry VIII Lounge, and taken to a house in Romulus and sexually assaulted.

Examination set for Westland man charged with murder

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A 33-year-old Westland man will be returned to 22nd District Court on Wednesday to answer to open murder charges.

David Koras is accused of stabbing to death Dwayne T. Tindell, 28, who resided in the 3000 block of Niagara in Wayne.

According to Inkster police, Koras was a passenger in the car driven by Tindell when the two men began to argue. Police believe that Koras pulled a butcher's knife and struck Tindell in the chest while the victim was driving in the Inkster Road and Pine Street area.

Tindell crashed the vehicle into the display window at Parham's Barber and Beauty Shoppe, located on Inkster Road.

The fatal stabbing took place at approximately 9:30 a.m. Feb. 16.

According to witnesses, Koras got out of the passenger's side of the vehicle and began to stroll away from the vehicle.

Three men who were inside the barber shop, Franklin Cross, David Latham and Jimmie Clark rushed out to see what had happened. Cross said that the passenger kicked open the car door and told him to look after the driver. The passenger then walked away.

The fatal stabbing took place a approximately 9:30 a.m. Feb. 16.

Cross said he and his friends became suspicious of the passenger because, they felt, if the passenger had been a friend of the victim's, why was he rushing away from the scene of the accident?

The Inkster residents ran after the suspect and captured him. They held the suspect until police arrived at the scene.

Inkster Detective Darryl Tubbs said that the suspect first denied that he had anything to do with the Tindell's death. Koras later broke down and confessed that he had stabbed Tindell during an argument, according to police.

Tubbs would not divulge what triggered the argument between the defendant and the victim.

Koras' examination on the murder charge is scheduled for 9 a.m. before 22nd District Judge Sylvia James.

The robbery occurred when a perpetrator, armed with a blue steel semi- automatic pistol entered the store around 12:30 a.m. and approached the lone store clerk, Haigh said.

The robber pointed the pistol at the woman and asked her to go to the register, Haigh said. He then instructed the 23-year-old woman to give him all the cash, and she complied. The perpetrator escaped on foot with an unknown amount of money, Haigh said.

The alleged robber is described as a white male between 17 and 18 years of age, wearing a hooded jacket and baseball cap.

DANCER

Mitchell told police that she was leaving the bar on Middlebelt Road when someone stuck a gun into her ribs and ordered her to walk to the parking lot where a car was waiting.

Once inside the car, Mitchell said in her report to the police, a man by the name of "Jerry" asked her how much she made from her dancing, then took the money, about $180, from her.

Mitchell said that the men then drove her to a location in Romulus where she was sexually assaulted. She said that they wanted more money from her and when she replied that she didn't have any, they threatened her.

According to the Inkster police report, Mitchell called a friend in South Lyon, asked for money, after she told him she had been kidnapped and the friend agreed to help.

Instead, the friend called the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

The FBI agents tapped the friend's telephone line and when the would- be kidnappers called back, the friend agreed to meet with them in a donut shop in Canton Township.

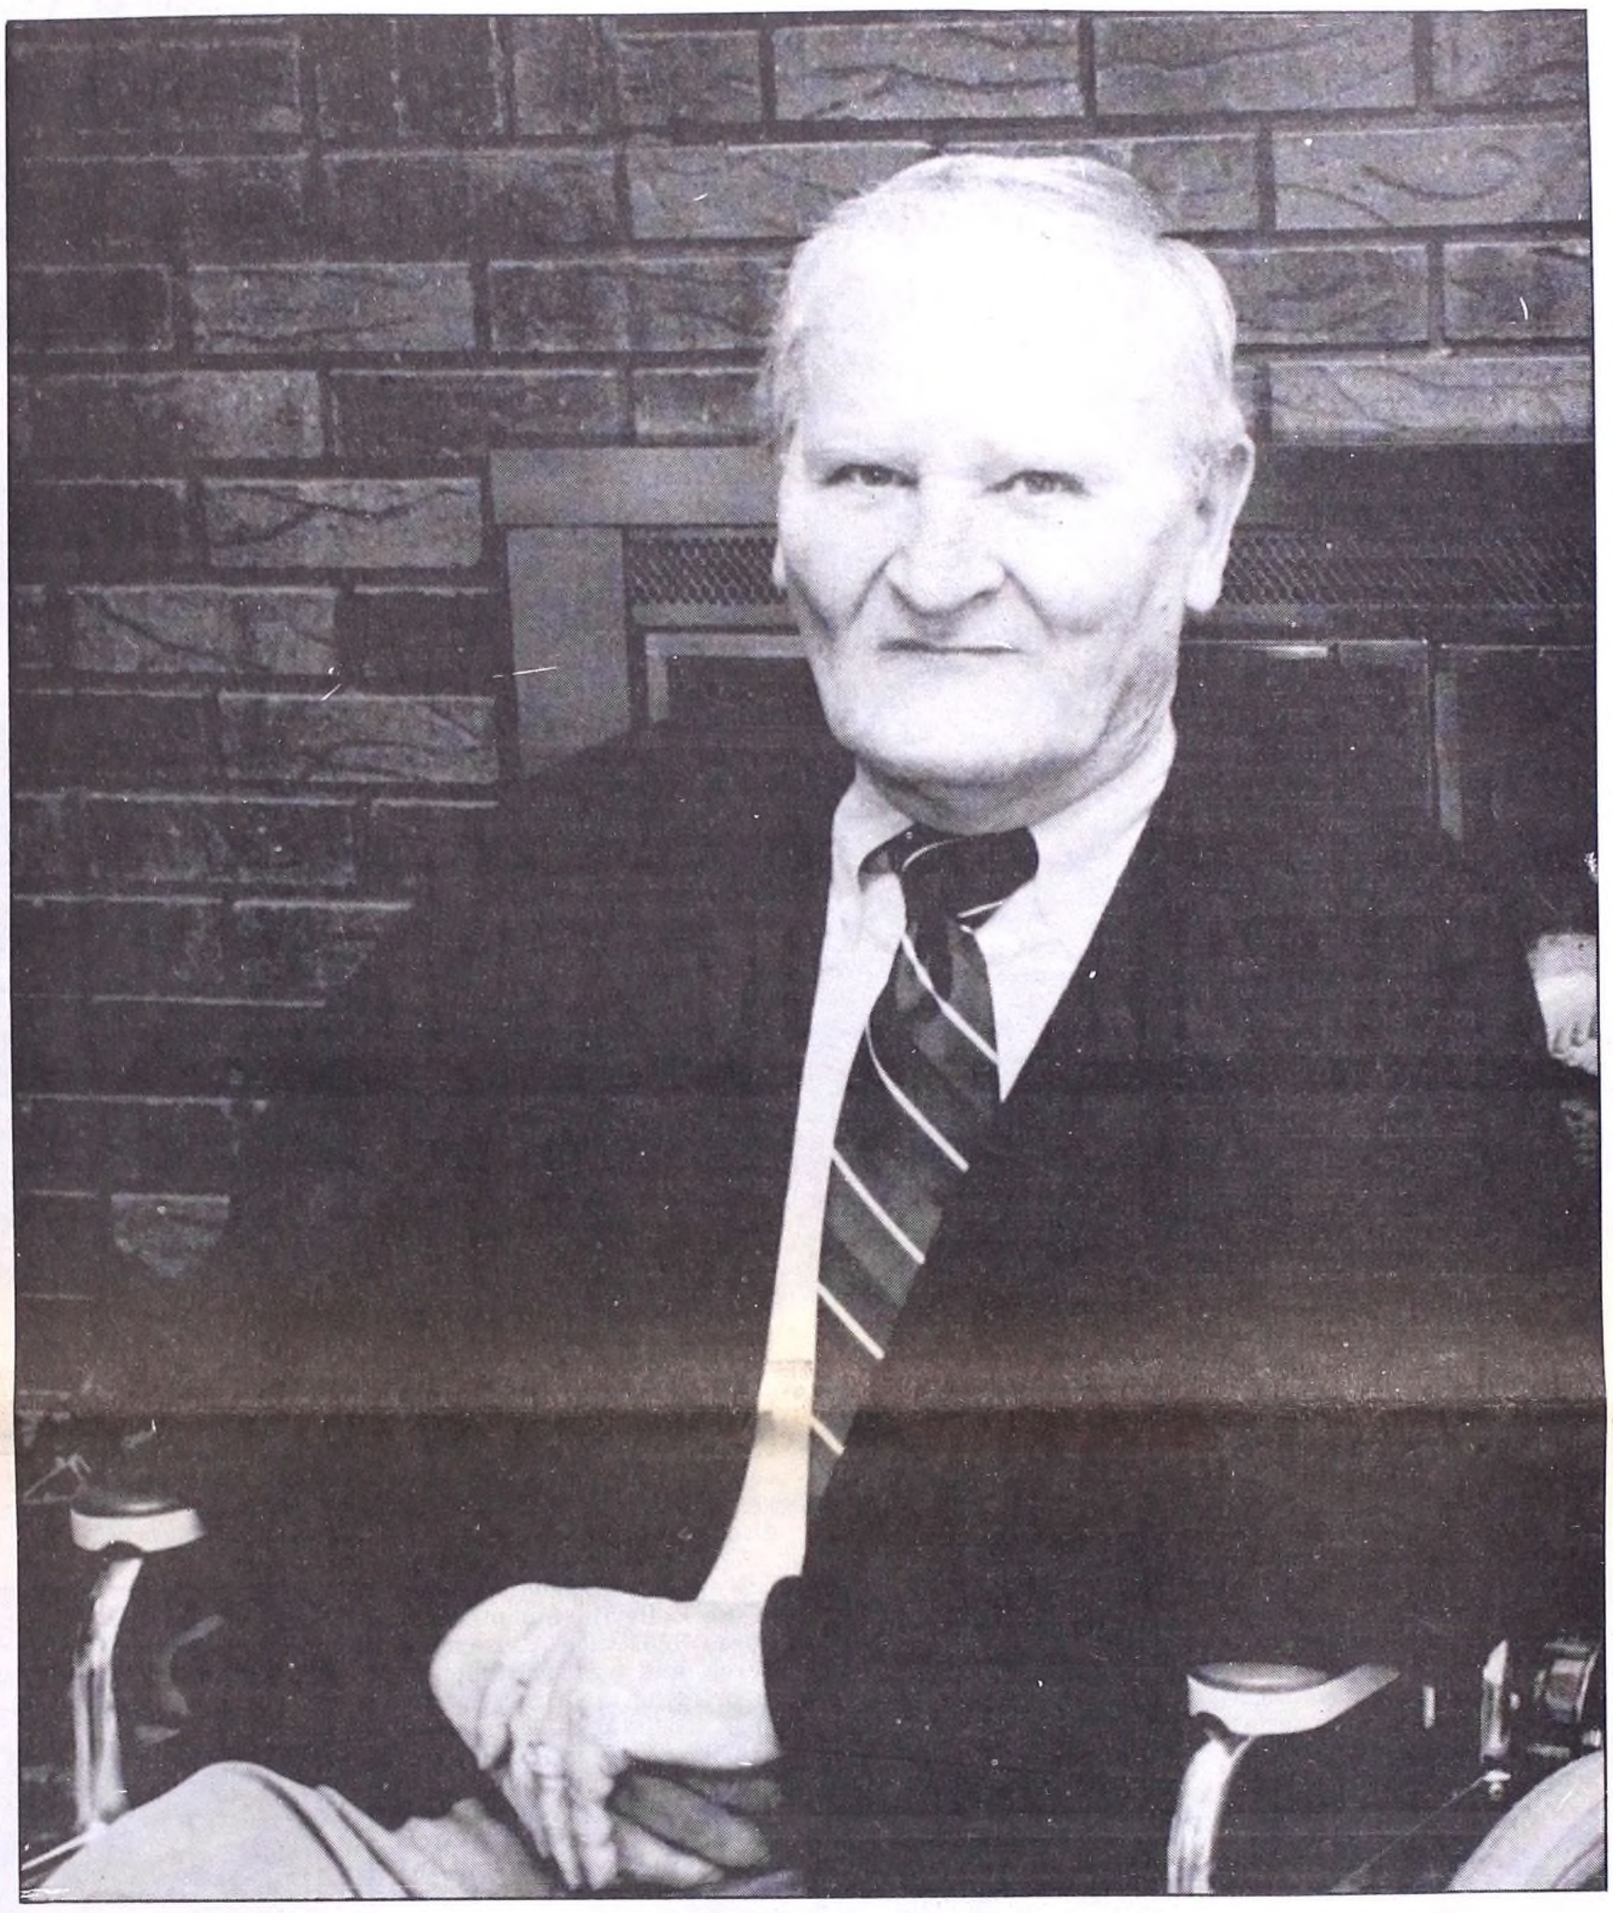
1994 Person of the Year



State Senator William Faust

Michigan State Senator William Faust (D-Westland) has been selected as The Associated Newspapers Person of the Year based on his 28 years of service to western Wayne county residents.

Faust, 65, serves as the senator from the 12th district which includes: Canton Township, Woodhaven, Westland, Wayne, Van Buren, Brownstown, Sumpter and Huron townships, Romulus, Rockwood, Flat Rock and Belleville. Faust plans to the retire from his post at the end of year to allow "new blood" to step into his senate seat.

Faust, often referred to as "Dean of the Senate" for serving the longest term as a Michigan Senator, began his political career as a former Nankin Township trustee and supervisor. When the township began to merge with the surrounding communities which later became Westland, Faust supporters advised him to become involved in a higher level of government with his extensive background in education.

> "It was an especially difficult time for me. I was literally elected from a hospital bed. I didn't have to worry about my problems - I had other things to worry about."

Perpetual knowledge was an important facet in the senator's life. After graduating from Indiana University, he enrolled at the University of Michigan where he earned a degree in business administration in 1952. Upon completion, he began graduate work at Eastern Michigan University.

While competing for the senate seat in 1966, Faust was involved in an automobile accident which left him confined to a wheelchair. However, despite the obstacles, he continued to pursue a career in the state government.

"It was an especially difficult time for me. I was literally elected from a hospital bed. I didn't have to worry about my problems -- I had other things to worry about," Faust said.

Some of Faust's final statewide projects as senator include the regulation of timber so that natural resources continue to serve Michigan, reducing the sentencing requirements of first-time non- violent drug law violators and conducting a state election hearing in Wayne regarding the March 15 ballot proposal tax.

On the local level, Faust is working to introduce legislation which requires that public hearing notices be carried in all local newspapers, probing into missing funds and questionable fiscal practices of employees and former employees of the 34th District Court in Romulus and he will meet with local organizations in Van Buren Township to explain the ramifications of the March 15 state-wide election.

Faust has served as vice chair of the Commerce, Corporations and Economic Development and Technology and Energy committees and said he thoroughly enjoyed his terms as senator.

"I enjoyed it. It has always been a challenge -- there is always something new," he said.

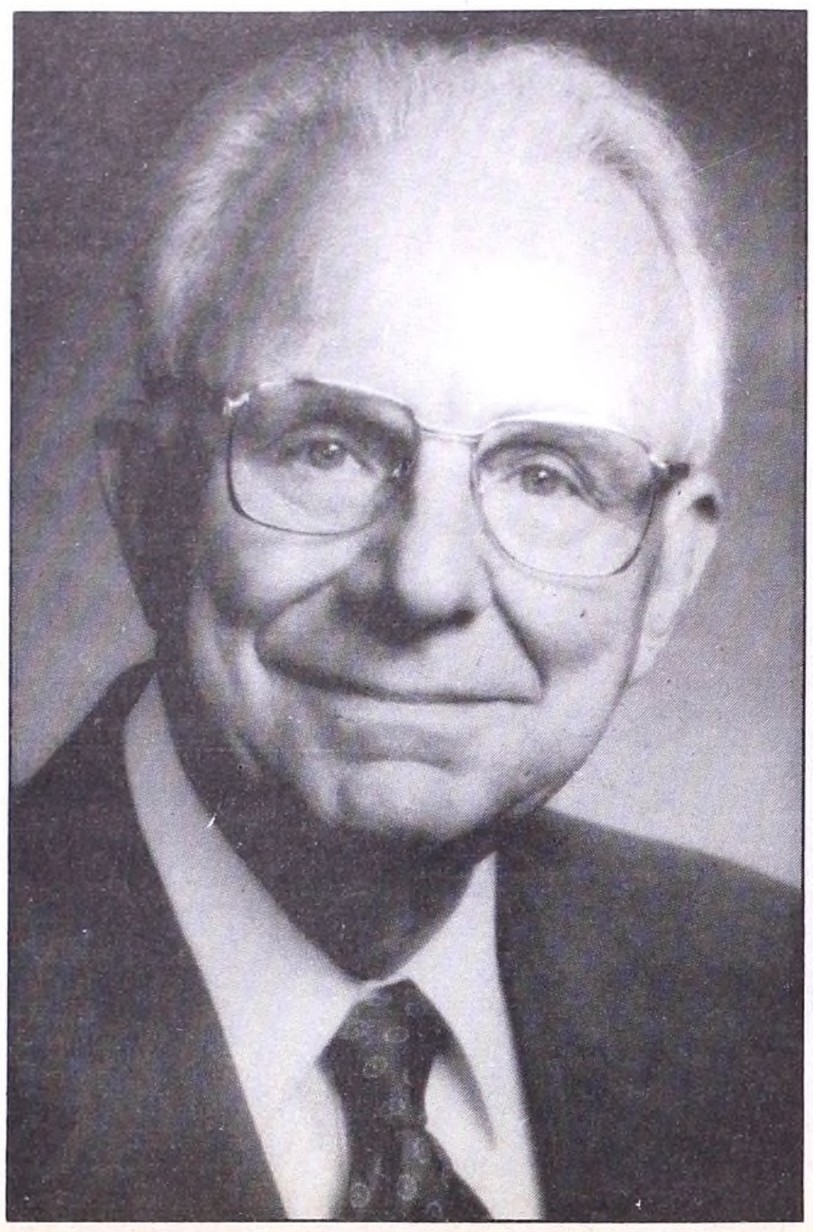
Person of the Year

Stephen Berry

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer



Stephen Berry has devoted more than 40 years of his life in service to the citizens of the city of Inkster.

The 79-year-old former council member's efforts have not gone unnoticed.

When The Associated Newspapers recently launched its search for candidates for the Person of the Year, letters began flooding the ANP selection committee, and one name, that of Stephen Berry's continued to reappear among the stack of mail.

One writer noted, " Stephen Berry has spent his entire residency in the City of Inkster with only one goal in mind, that of being of service to his community and its citizens."

Yet another pointed out Berry's "long service as an elected and appointed official whose integrity and honesty were beyond reproach".

The search was made easy by these letters and it decided to honor the former Inkster councilman as the Person of the Year in the city of Inkster.

"I am tremendously honored and really lost for words," said Berry. "There are so many good and more deserving candidates in this city. I don't know what to say, but to thank you."

Berry and wife, Sophie, moved to Inkster in 1951 and raised their son, Robert in the city. Robert, a product of the Cherry Hill School District, went on to become as associate professor of history and is presently teaching at Salisbury State University in Maryland. He and his wife, Dagmar, have two children.

In 1981, Berry was appointed by city council to the Inkster Housing Commission where he put to good use his background his business acuity and the checks-and-balances he obtained as a former IRS and Secretary of State employee.

In one of the letters nominating Mr. Berry, the writer stressed that..."when city council appointed him to the Inkster Housing Commission as one of its commissioners, Mr. Berry regarded his position not only as an honor but to be taken very seriously. He soon was elected treasurer of the commission, a title he holds to this day. His function, in addition to attending monthly meetings, is to be on call for necessary voucher signatures; many times during inclement weather and post-surgical recovery."

Serious illness also has not kept Berry from carrying out his civic duties. He attends most of the city council meetings and is ready to voice his opinions on pertinent issues of the day.

Berry served on council from 1983 to 1991, two terms that he said were "a very learning experience and important part of his life."

He believes that the present council and administration are trying to solve some of the city problems and realizes "that government can do only so much."

However, he is quick to note, "There appear to be some members of this council who are ambitious and have another agenda, a personal agenda and are not in tune with the needs of our city."

The past two years have not been kind to Berry. The loss of his beloved wife and physical setbacks have taken their toll, but he refuses, he says, to retreat into the shell called depression.

In the letter of nomination, the writer said that, "We will never cease to be impressed by this remarkable individual. I believe it is time to publicly honor and thank him for his selfless service to all of us."

We agree.

After serving as Belleville police chief for 33-plus years, Willard (Doc) Dockter couldn't just settle back in a rocking chair, so he exchanged one set of duties for another.

Currently, the former city police chief is working as deputy chief at Metro Airport and also working for the state on traffic safety problems. In addition, Dockter is still retained as a public safety consultant for the city.

In her letter of nomination for 1994 Person of the Year, Geraldine Priest, a long-time friend of the former police chief, said, "He has served our community for 35 years, and we could always depend on his courtesy and thorough handling of our problems.

"Mr. Dockter has always been involved with community charities, and was director of our Salvation Army local effort for many years and is still an active board member. He chairs many committees that work to keep our state a front runner in safety, and also works with the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police," Priest said.

In June of 1993, Dockter ended 33-1/2 years of service as a police officer.

"I always wanted to be a police officer - even as a youngster," Dockter said. "When I got out of service in 1957, we were in a recession and a lot of people were getting laid off. I was looking for security, and, at the time, you never heard of a police officer being laid off," Dockter recalled.

Dockter, a native of North Dakota, came to Michigan with his family. They settled in Melvindale, and he attended school there. He spent two years in the service before his discharge in 1957.

The former police chief was one of the organizing member of the Belleville-Sumpter-Van Buren Substance Abuse Task Force, and was instrumental in bringing the Drug Awareness Resistance Education (DARE) program into the Van Buren Public Schools.

"Law enforcement officers have three ways to attack drugs: Enforcement, rehabilitation and education. The first two aren't producing results. Our only hope is through education," he said.

In addition to his traffic safety and anti-drug work, Dockter was active in the Goodfellows and aided the Michigan Humane Society. He also launched public awareness campaigns against scams aimed at the elderly.

Because Belleville is beyond the core service area of many charities, Docker was often contacted to take on duties or serve as a liaison for various agencies. Reportedly, there were few, if any, community service projects that he did not offer his assistance.

1984 and cites his term as majority leader as one of his most rewarding experiences.

"I had the opportunity to serve as a majority leader. I reorganized the senate rules, passed 150 bills and wrote one constitutional amendment," Faust said.

Faust was also instrumental in starting a state museum and procuring a grant for libraries in Wayne and Westland.

One of Faust's best experiences as a senator was being thanked for his assistance helping elderly people with their medical needs.

"On a personal level, the best experience was having an elderly woman from Sumpter Township ask if I was Faust," he said.

When the senator replied "yes" the woman smiled and told him that because of his efforts she had a new set of false teeth.

> "I'm very grateful for people in this area. I know it sounds corny but it was a Godsend. I hope I did some good."
> William Faust

The senator's father was one of his greatest influences in Lansing, helping him get on with his life after the automobile accident and staying involved in his son's career.

"My dad was a great influence. He was interested in what I was doing," Faust said.

Others who impressed Faust and whom he considers role models include: former Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, Congressman Sander Levin and former Wayne Mayor Pat Norton who, "always kept me on the straight and narrow."

"Mayors in Westland always wanted me to do more," Faust added.

Some advice to the next 12th District senator, "Like people and want to help them both individually and the whole population, then let the specific interests in your own area take over."

Faust wanted to thank the citizens of western Wayne county for all their support throughout his almost three decades of service as a state senator.

"I'm very grateful for people in this area. I know it sounds corny but it was a Godsend. I hope I did some good."

Faust was the unanimous choice of The Associated Newspapers editorial board for his contributions to the area and his dedication to public service.

MUSICAL COMRADES

Text by Margo Dewey

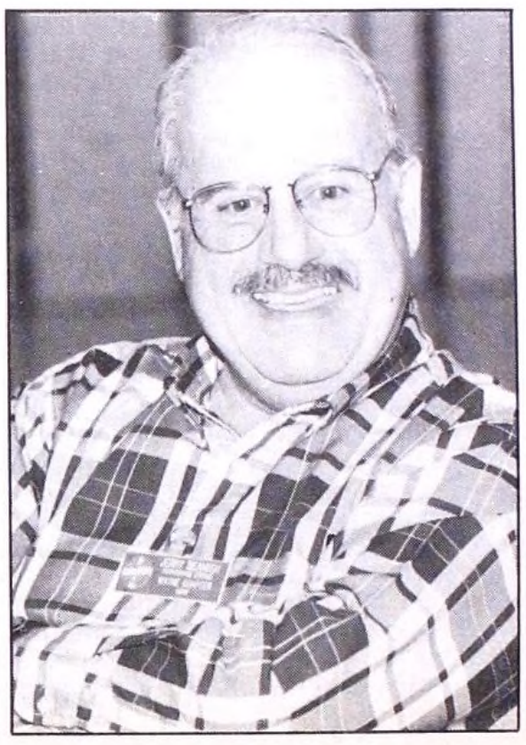
"Wayne is actually the pioneer district for the organization. The society has eight affiliate organizations in various parts of the world which includes Australia and Great Britain."

Edward Wojtan



"Most of us don't know how many children the other has or what we do on a daily basis. We come here to do what we enjoy most, sing. We love what we do which is why you'll find some of the members here for 20 or 30 years."

Local barber shop singers become pirates

Well this is one of those songs that you hear now and then...

They come from all walks of life. The professions represented in this unique musical group are salesmen, accountants, business owners, attorneys and construction workers.

They are members of a barber shop quartet. A group of men who sometimes travel hundreds of miles to fulfill their passion for singing.

At 8 p.m. March 4 and 5 the Renaissance Chorus of the Wayne chapter of the Society for the Prevention and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) will present a swashbuckling event when the Pirates of the Barber Shop Coast invade the Our Lady of Mercy High School for the annual show staged by the chapter.

Area residents who will perform and are members of the Wayne chapter SPEBSQSA include: Canton Township - Andy Alflen, Jim Stephens and Dennis Talbot; Wayne - John Purcell; and Westland - Dick Barber, Jerry Beamish, Scott Casey, Bob Cosselmon, Don Feeback, Gary Francis, Bob Gentry, Larry Radley, Marv Skupski, Terry Tarr and Alex Wilcox.

The 40-man chorus, directed by Matt Coombs, will explore the vast seas during their voyages of adventure and piracy. The songs their scurvy crew will sing include Safe Harbor, The Pirate's Life and Slippery Sal.

Two quartets will be featured in the show, according to Edward W. Wojtan, SPEBSQSA show publicity director.

"The Cascade Convention will feature a lead and a bass who reside in the state of Oregon, and a tenor and a baritone who reside in the state of Wisconsin," Wojtan said. "The quartet has been district champion and has competed in the international competitions twice."

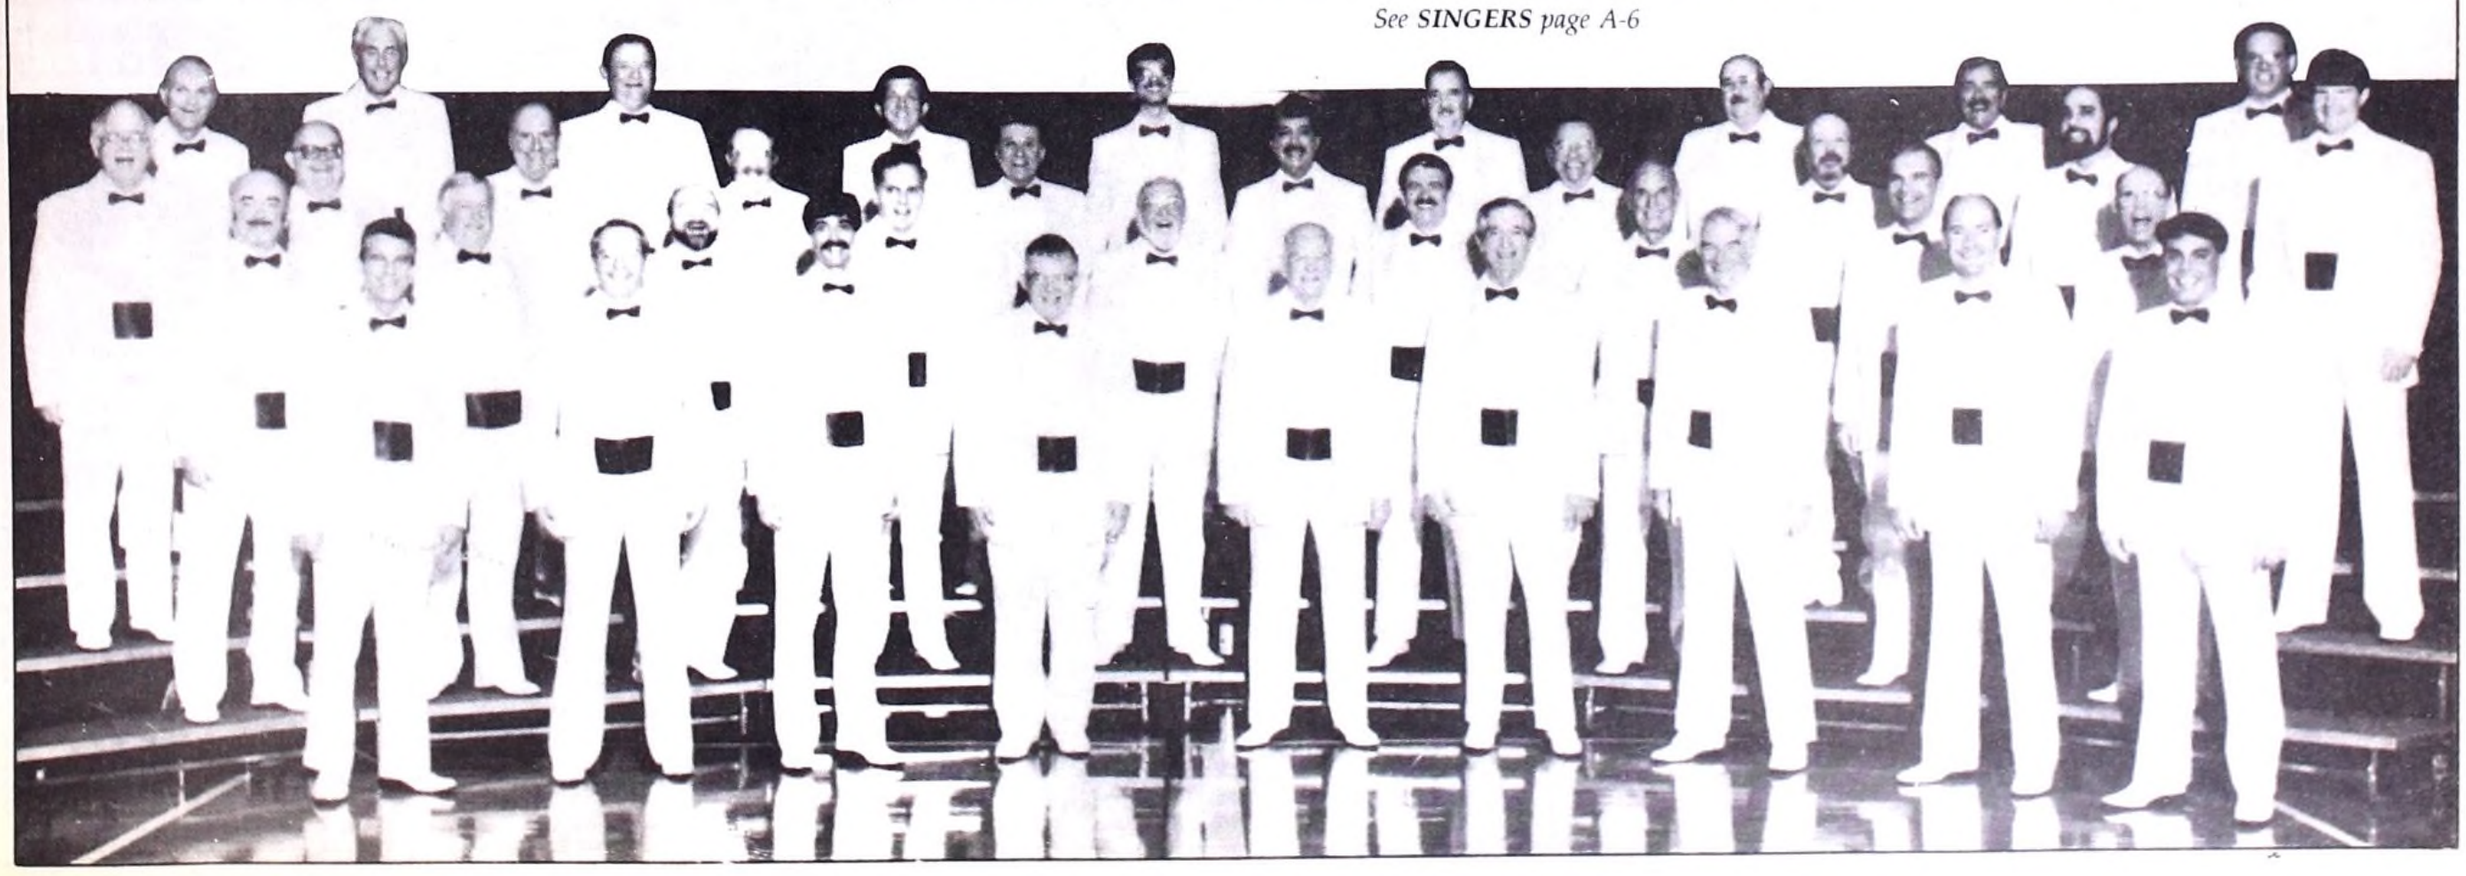
Livonia resident Al Fricker (left, right) said he enjoys the comradery of the barber shop group.

Westland resident Jerry Beamish (right) said he joined the barber shop quartet after reading about the group in a newspaper.



Wayne resident faces assault charge in crushing of victim

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A Wayne resident who drove his vehicle into four people, shattering the legs of a Westland man by crushing him between a building and his car, has been arraigned on four counts of assault with intent to great bodily harm less than murder.

Carl Wayne Boone, 22, has been arraigned on charges and is being held on a $50,000 cash bond pending a March 3 preliminary examination in Westland 18th District Court. If convicted, Boone could be sentenced to a maximum of 10 years in prison for each count and up to $5,000 fine on each count.

The assault allegedly occurred around 2 a.m. on Jan. 31 after the defendant was removed from the Rock-A-Way Cafe, located at 34275 Ford Road in Westland, following an altercation.

Shortly after the man left, people inside the bar were told the man was tampering with their cars in the parking lot and several patrons went outside, Haigh said.

When the people went to the parking lot, Haigh said, the attacker got into his car, revved up the engine and pulled forward out of the parking space hitting four people. According to Haigh, the attacker made no effort to turn the vehicle away from the crowd.

One of the victims, a 28-year-old Westland man, was pinned between the building and the car and was rushed to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor suffering multiple fractures to both legs, Haigh said. The other three were not seriously injured and were treated and released from local hospitals

Canton Township clerk seeks state senator seat, 12th District

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

Canton Township Clerk Loren Bennett (R-Canton) made it official Wednesday morning.

Surrounded by supporters, Bennett announced his candidacy for the Michigan State Senate 12th District seat of retiring Sen. William Faust (D-Westland). The 12th Senate District encompasses Westland, Wayne, Romulus, Belleville, Woodhaven, Flat Rock, Rockwood and the townships of Canton, Van Buren, Sumpter, Huron and Brownstown.

"I want to take this opportunity to tell you a little bit about why I am running for this seat," Bennett said to the crowd. "Simply put, it is this: I believe that Michigan needs less government, and we get that by using more common sense."

The life-long Wayne County resident feels the problems of the state lie in a government that hopes to improve the future through costly programs that have long since stopped making sense."

"While I have an enormous amount of respect and admiration for Senator Faust, I intend to be a different kind of senator," promised Bennett. "I will oppose tax increases and support budgets which trim fat and reduce spending. There will be no one in the State Senate who will be more frugal with the taxpayer's money than me."

Bennett, recently appointed by Governor John Engler to the Michigan Underground Storage Tank Financial Assurance Policy Board (MUSFA), told the audience he would treat funding on the state level as he has on the local level for the past five years.

"As Canton Township clerk, I have been able to manage a strict, lean budget," said Bennett. "We've dealt with the explosive growth in our community without raising tax rates and we've done it with common sense management (i.e foregoing the clerk's name on poll books, stationery and other supplies)."

"The very simple way to cut fat is to elect people with no ego," said the public servant. "You don't need to have your name on everything and it costs four to five times more (to special order stationery) than if you pick it up off the shelf."

Bennett attributes his common sense education to employment both inside and outside the political realm.

"I worked as a manager for British Petroleum, as a controller for the Plymouth Hilton, and most importantly, started my own real estate business where I had to keep costs low and provide for my employees," said the candidate. "I understand what it takes to run a business and have to meet a payroll."

A Schoolcraft College alumnus, Bennett said he is ready to tackle important issues facing the state including crime and education reform, as well as be financially responsible.

"The government creates laws, and then instead of enforcing them, they create new laws (for repeat offenders)," he said. "My question is 'What are we going to tell the victim of the third crime?' If we had truth in sentencing, we could solve some of these problems. We need the intestinal fortitude to enforce what (laws) we've got."

Supported by his wife, Terri, and two daughters, Wendy and Cindy, Bennett envisions moving state government forward.

"The choice will be clear: less government or more, common sense or more of the same. That's the contrast my candidacy offers," said the Senate candidate, "that's not just election-year rhetoric, that's my record."

Erma Keahl, left, and Virgie Jackson were on hand this week at Canton Place to hear Canton Township Clerk Loren Bennett's announcement of his candidacy for the 12 State Senatorial District seat. Bennett, a Republican, seeks to replace 28-year senate veteran William Faust (D- Westland) who announced his retirement earlier this year. ANP photo by Ken Garner

Wayne woman's efforts beautify city

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Her dedication to community beautification work earned Nancy Kiras of Wayne a nomination for 1994 Person of the Year.

Kiras, who is chairperson of the Wayne Beautification Committee, has initiated and implemented many new projects, such as the Keep Wayne Beautiful Awards Program.

In her letter of nomination Mary Ann Daily said, "Various project like these have stimulated and encouraged citizens in the city to participate and pursue beautification in neighborhoods, individual homes and businesses.

"Nancy is modest, yet proud of her accomplishments, and is always searching for new and creative ideas to maintain the interest of members on the committee," Daily said. "For example, she regularly shares ideas and suggestions with our committee while willingly accepting our own thoughts and views.

FOOD

that originally was located at the old Brass Rail in Detroit.

Odom, a vegetarian, finds the menu at Talal's especially tempting.

"Many people believe that vegetarian foods are bland and uninteresting. If they do, they've never tried Mideastern foods," Odom said. "What a delight are Talal's tabbouli, the fattoush and hommous and the falafel. And, the pita bread - fresh from the oven."

The menu features Mediterranean kabobs with lamb, beef shish kabob, boneless marinated chicken plus a variety of seafoods - swordfish, salmon, red snapper, lobster, shrimp and crab legs.

"The secret to fine dining here is to sample foods you haven't tried before. Order appetizer combination trays to sample a variety of foods," Odom said. "Also, if you're not familiar with some of the foods, trust your waiter. They are all very knowlegeable about the foods and can help you select some special treats."

One of the special treats is fresh-baked pita bread, which is baked in an open hearth oven in the center of the restaurant.

The restaurant is located at 22041 Michgian Ave., in Dearborn.

SINGERS

ences of all ages with a fast-paced show package which includes rib-tickling antics mixed with show tunes, upbeat contemporary numbers, and old-time nostalgic favorites.

Barbershop singing consists of the members harmonizing without accompaniment of musical instruments. The Wayne chapter of SPEBSQSA formed in 1938. SPEBSQSA is the largest male singing group in the country, according to Wojtan.

"Wayne is actually the pioneer district for the organization," Wojtan said. "The society has eight affiliate organizations in various parts of the world which includes Australia and Great Britain."

Members of SPEBSQSA perform for various organizations throughout the year as well as churches and hospitals, according to Wojtan. The youngest member is 20 years old, and the eldest member of the group is 82.

Livonia resident Al Fricker, who has been with the Wayne Chapter of SPEBSQSA for 40 years, said he enjoys the comradery of the group and performing before a live audience.

"It's nice to entertain people," Fricker said. "I enjoy singing any kind of song that can be don barber shop style. I started singing when I was in kindergarten. I sang in high school and at church. About 50 percent of our members are members of their church choirs."

Fricker explained that the quarter members enjoy their singing so much that really they don't know too much about each other's personal lives even though some of the members have been singing together for 10 or 20 years.

"Most of us don't know how many children the other has or what we do on a daily basis," Fricker said. "We come here to do what we enjoy most, sing. When we arrive for practice, all of us are very serious about getting the words right and the various turn movements down that are choreographed to the songs. We love what we do which is why you'll find some of the members here for 20 or 30 years."

Beamish said he joined after seeing an advertisement in the paper about the group a year ago.

"I never sung before," Beamish said. "I have two daughters who sing with the Sweet Adelines. I just walked off the street and decided to join the group.

"I like performing. I've only been in one competition so far, but I can tell you it's quite a rush to compete at such a professional level."

Now that's Italian

Restaurant takes pride in homemade quality

Tasty homemade Italian dishes ranging from luncheon pizza and submarine sandwiches to full course pasta, chicken and veal dinners are available to Associated Newspapers VIP ticket holders at a discounted price at Antonio's restaurant in Dearborn Heights.

Owner Anthony Rugiero proudly states "our family motto is 'if it is not made in the house, we don't serve it.'"

For VIP card holders, $3 is discounted off lunches for two Monday through Friday, $5 is discounted from dinners for two Sunday through Thursday and a complimentary dessert is served free with a meal for a VIP card holder.

Rugiero said, "We have a pasta factory on premises, and we make all our own pasta, sauces, soups and dressings. Various Italian style breads, including our popular pizza bread, are constantly available.

"We tell our customers, relax and enjoy the atmosphere, because we make everything here from scratch," Rugiero said.

His six-member family includes his mom, Rita, who is the main cook; his dad, Antonio, who the restaurant was named after; and his three brothers, Mark, Robert and Patrick.

Other customer favorites include homemade gnocchi (a potato dumping) and imported espresso and cappucino coffees, Rugiero said.

Small birthday gatherings are popular at Antonio's and the birthday honoree is treated to a special personal birthday cake.

In addition, banquets for parties of up to 65 persons can be accommodated in the banquet room, he said.

The only items not made on premises are the beer, wines and liquors.

Lunches are served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily and dinners are offered from 3 to 10 p.m.

The restaurant located at 26356 Ford Road, Dearborn Heights, closes at 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. All other nights the eatery closes an hour earlier.

An employee at Antonio's prepares the fresh pasta made on the premises each day for the various homemade Italian dishes featured at the family-owned and operated business which serves traditional Italian fare. High-Tech Cabinets of Garden City is offering Associated Newspaper VIP card carriers free estimates and free built-in dishwashers with the purchase of complete kitchen cabinets with tops.

Derek Street revealed he and his partner, Jeff Ward, are currently located at 5852 Hubbard St. in Garden City. They were previously located for five years in Westland.

"We provide quality products and service," Street said, "and also service many hair salons in the area.

"Individuals interested in new kitchen cabinets just need to call (513-7713) and alert us to the color of the cabinet door they favor and we will bring samples to their home," he said.

"Our cabinets are manufactured by Merillat and Aristrocrat companies," Street said. The formica tops are custom built by High-Tech workers.

"We usually measure as soon as the customer accepts our estimate," he said, "and then return within two days and install the cabinets."

Street said the gift five-cycle Frigidare dishwasher is the top of the line.

"All our work is geared to please our customers," he said, "so we are willing to give them names of our previous customers for recommendations."
